Mr. Brown goes to Washington

Brown beat Coakley by landslide in Wilmington

By JAYNE W. MILLER

WILMINGTON - A Republican state senator from Wrentham wrested a seismic victory from Attorney General and senatorial candidate Martha Coakley in Tuesday's election. Brown's election ends the Democrat filibuster-proof Senate 60 vote supermajority. Having campaigned on being the 41st vote against the Democrats' healthcare reform bill, that message resonated throughout Wilmington, with voters citing health care as a chief galvanizing issue, bringing them out to vote.

"They came in wheelchairs. They came in walkers and canes because they wanted to vote in this election," Town Clerk Sharon George told the Crier following the election. The snow did not deter the voters at all, with a turnout of 9,367, or 60 percent of Wilmington's registered voters. The turnout was unexpectedly high; George had expected closer to 7,000 voters and reported that the traffic was steady all day long.

Brown more than doubled Coakley's vote with 6,225 votes to Coakley's 3,057. Independent Joe Kennedy captured just 81 votes and there were four write-in votes, according to the Wilmington Town Clerk's office Tuesday night, with the preliminary election results that included the machines and the absentee ballots. Overall, Brown beat Coakley with 52 percent of the vote in Massachusetts, with 1,168,107 votes versus Coakley's 47 percent, at 1,058,682 votes. Kennedy earned just 1% of the vote.

A temperamental voting machine at the Boutwell School complicated matters around 6:00 p.m., necessitating bringing in a back-up machine. George reported that all the ballots were counted appropriately, after the first machine stopped accepting the ballots with 1,239 votes. The spare machine took 292 more ballots.

Murder, mystery, and laughs

Local author publishes first novel

By CHARITY B. LEGVOLD

WILMINGTON - Wilmington resident Susan Ravagni recently published her first book, a medical mystery thriller titled "I'm Just a Girl," and now while several independent booksellers in the North Shore area are currently selling her work, Ravagni is already at work on the second book in her new series.

Ravagni describes "I'm Just a Girl" as a novel that follows the trail of Amanda Buscemi, a medical technologist and mother of two who learns that the seemingly accidental death of a Boston College hockey player may not have been an accident after all.

She noted that as Buscemi and her best friend, Milagros, follow the trail of clues, they uncover a murder plot that draws them into a sinister web - and a hilarious, outlandish adventure.

"I wanted to make it funny and interesting," Ravagni said. "I wanted to make it a

A look back at Wilmington of yesteryear...

50 years ago: tragedy

By LARZ F. NEILSON

WILMINGTON - On a January night 50 years ago, an elderly lawyer and his sister died in a fire that consumed their home - along with an undetermined amount of historic artifacts and information.

Paul Dyer Emmons and Jennie D. Emmons were found just inside the door of their house at 307 Salem St. He had evidently given the last minutes of his life to a vain attempt to save his sister, who was crippled by arthritis.

Paul Emmons was a well-respected real estate and probate attorney and a diligent local historian. He was friends with Arthur T. Bond, whose historical collection is considered the cornerstone of Wilmington's historical collection.

Emmons wrote a series of articles for the Wilmington News in the late 1930s, titled Wilmington Yarns. There are no files of the Wilmington News, but the series was reprinted in the Wilmington Crusader in 1952. It gives a picture of North Wilmington more than a century ago.

He also wrote a 1936 critique of the bureaucratic review of writing performed under the WPA, the U.S. Works Progress Administration. In his project for the WPS, he cited his family background with little documentation, because none existed, and that caused the WPA program to reject it.

That article pointed to a truly ancient ancestry. He wrote: "When an exploring expedition forced their way through the woods from

Ernie Mello pulls woman from burning car seconds before it explodes

By JAMIE POTE

WILMINGTON - Ernie Mello, the former three-sport athlete at WHS - who was just recently named the Town Crier's Male Athlete of the Decade - was faced with a crucial decision not too long ago while in his dorm room at Worcester Poly Technic Institute.

"It was a crazy night that I'll never forget," he said.

Mello, a sophomore at WPI, was hanging out with his football friends near Stoddard

Hall when they all heard something out of the ordinary.

"We just heard this huge noise," he said. "So we all went down to see what it was, and there was a big accident. One car got rear ended it was up in flames."

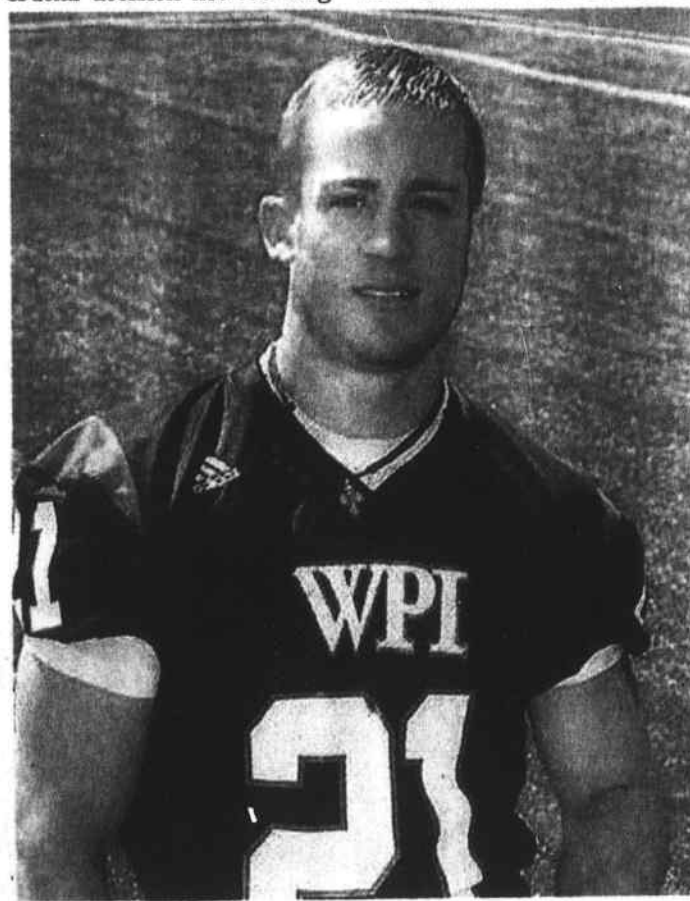

Not hesitating for a moment, Mello and one his friends, Matt Zubiell, heard terrible screams coming from the car.

"There was a lady (Arsine Sahverdiyan of Worcester) trapped in the car," said Mello. "The car was engulfed in flames and you could hear her screaming and there's no way you could just let her get burned alive and just listen to her scream. So me and (Zubiell) just started breaking a window in, and were able to get her out of the car. She was all burned but we got her to the sidewalk."

Then about ten seconds later, the scene escalated even further.

"The whole car just exploded," he recalled. "It was so scary. My friends were saying I was a psycho, but I'd say about ten seconds after we got her on the sidewalk, the entire car just exploded. It

NH Supreme Court hears LaBarre's appeal

Countie's killer says evidence gathered illegally

By KATHY MCCORMACK

Associated Press Writer

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) - An attorney for a woman convicted of killing two boyfriends on her horse farm appealed her case to the New Hampshire Supreme Court on Wednesday, saying the trial judge should have thrown out evidence gathered from police searches of her property.

One of her victims was Kenneth Countie, who had ties to Wilmington and Tewksbury. He has family living in Tewksbury, and he had lived in Wilmington just prior to moving in with LaBarre.

Attorney David Rothstein argued that police violated LaBarre's privacy by going onto her Epping property on March 24, 2006, without a warrant when they went to check on the well-being of one of her boyfriends.

Before LaBarre's case went to trial, her lawyers asked a judge not to allow prosecutors to use evidence from that visit and other police searches of her home and property. The court denied the request and LaBarre later admitted she killed Kenneth Countie and another boyfriend, Michael Deloge and burned their bodies, saying she was insane at the time. A jury rejected the insanity claim and she was sentenced to life in prison in 2008.

Assistant Attorney General Ann Rice argued that LaBarre gave up her right to challenge the judge's decision on evidence when she admitted she killed the boyfriends.

Countie, 24, met LaBarre through a personal ad in February 2006. He moved in with her soon after and was last seen alive that March, being pushed by LaBarre in a wheelchair at Wal-Mart, his face and hands covered with cuts. Police saw him at the Wal-Mart; Countie's mother also called police saying she was worried about him. Police also got a phone call from LaBarre in which she played a recording of herself questioning whether Countie had raped children, according to court testimony.

When police went to the house to check, they saw a burned mattress and a burn pile with large bone fragment. After knocking and getting no response, they kicked down the door, court documents said. Shortly after that, LaBarre arrived and invited them into the house. Countie was not there, but his sneakers were. When police asked for them, she refused. She also said the bone was from a rabbit she had cremated.

Rothstein argued that the police action was unjustified because there was no emergency and that under the circumstances, LaBarre's consent wasn't voluntary.

"We believe there was an expectation of privacy," Rothstein said.

Rice said police had reason to act as they did. "We had a man who clearly was in dire straits," she said.

Judge William Henry Harrison Emmons of the East Boston District Court built this house that is now 313 Salem St. He was a Civil War General. He later became the first police commissioner of the City of Boston and was the father of two who were killed in a fire next door to this house, 50 years ago.

was such a crazy situation." It was a situation and a gut reaction that he doesn't regret.

"It was such a crazy moment to be in," he said. "But hearing her scream got to me and I couldn't just let her burn. I know I put myself into danger, but I think if the case was reversed and I was the one in the car burning, that someone would do the same thing for me. It was a decision I had to make really fast and I just reacted and tried to help her."

And when the EMT's and Fire Engines came to take Sahverdiyan to the nearest hospital, Mello said he had to calm himself down a bit.

"I was just sitting there really shaking," he said. "I know we helped her out, but I could've got myself killed. I'm proud that we helped her, and I just hope that I'll never be in the situation again. I know if I am, I'll do it again, but I just really hope something like that never happens again."

Sahverdiyan, 61, was rear ended at a red light by an alleged drunk driver, and is still alive today thanks to the heroic efforts of Mello and Zubieli.

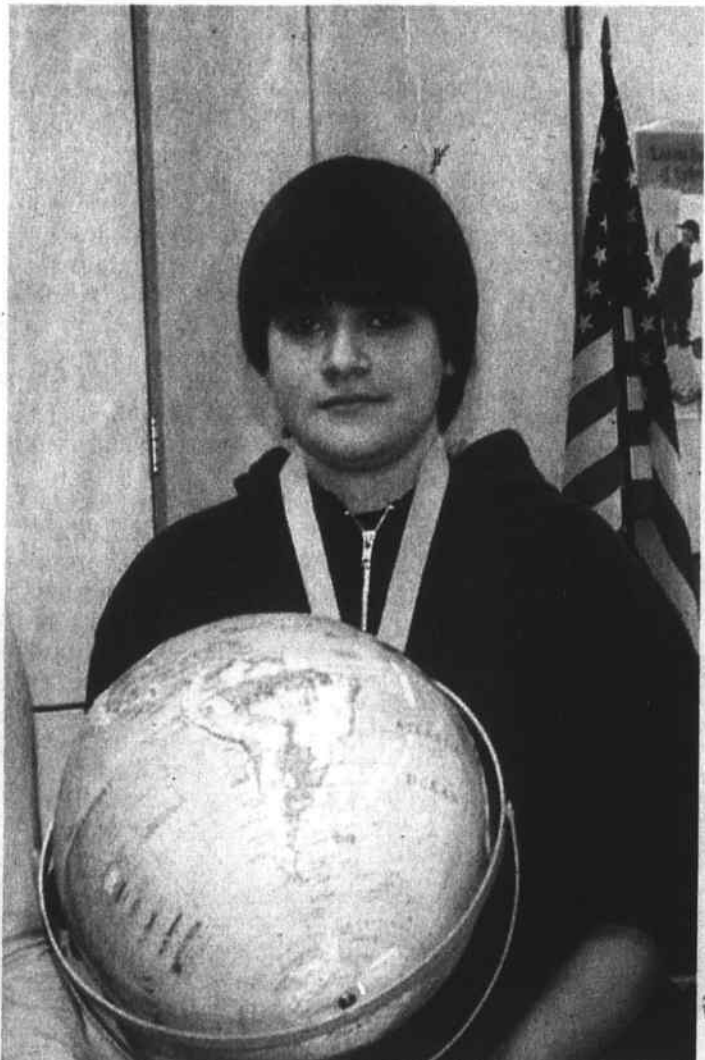

"I talked to her family several weeks after it happened and met some of her family," he said. "I met her son and daughter and they were all worked up and just so grateful for what I did and saving their mother's life. They seem to be really nice people and I'm just glad everything worked out."

Mello met Vartan Sahverdiyan, Arsine's son, and the two have continued a friendship through "Facebook."

"If not for Ernie's and Matt's efforts, my mom would not be alive," Vartan Sahverdiyan told the Worcester Telegram. "We owe them an enormous debt of gratitude. They put their own lives at risk to save her. They are true heroes."

Ernie was asked about eventually meeting the woman he saved from dying right in front of him.

"We said that we would get together (in the spring of 2010) after football season was over," he said.

NEW WRINKLES IN BENEFIT PLANS

For smaller firms (fewer than 500 workers), there's a new benefit option this year: a combined 401(k) and defined benefit pension plan. The new DB(k) must provide a benefit equal to at least one percent of final average pay for each year on service, up to 20 years. The 401(k) part of the plan must include automatic enrollment unless the worker opts out. Employees can defer four percent of their pay, and the company must match at least half of that amount. Sponsors won't have to test to see if benefits are slanted toward highly paid workers, and paperwork is easy.

Automatic enrollment is especially important to IRS benefit-plan experts, and they have released a couple of model amendments to encourage approval. Also: plans can have the employee pay-ins go up automatically each year, as long as workers can opt out. More: The value of an employee's unused can be transferred to his or her 401(k), instead of getting a taxable cash payout.

Let us help your business keep up with the best tax and benefit options. See the people at Salem, ... to the virgin territory of Mishawum, ... they found the place full of Indians, whom they called Aberginians, and a white man already in possession. His name was Thomas Walford. ... Very little is known of this original settler of Middlesex. The records tell us nothing except that he was driven out in 1631 and went to Pisquataqua. ... Incidentally this Thomas Walford was also ancestor of mine, as near as I can make out."

In July 1952, Paul Emmons was hired by Town Manager Dean Cushing to clear the titles on land off Eames Street. The land had been subdivided into tiny lots by speculators in the late 1800s. No roads were ever built and many of the purchasers let their property lapse into tax title. Some people could be easily found, but others disappeared. The project was Herculean, and Emmons spent 20 consecutive days at the Registry of Deeds in Lowell, researching land sales. He finished the project in about three months. The town then sold the land to National Polychemicals, which built a plant on the site. The tax title properties became tax-producing industrial property. Decades later, though, it has become the heavily-polluted Olin site.

Paul and Jennie Emmons were descended from several prominent people in history, including Rev. Thomas Carter, the first settled minister in Woburn, and Mary Dyer, a Quaker who was hanged on Boston Common in 1660 for refusing to recant her religious beliefs. She had become a Quaker in 1637. In 1660, the legislature passed a law banning Quakers. She had repeatedly defied that law, returning to Massachusetts.

Six months before the fire, Paul Emmons had attended the dedication of a statue of Mary Dyer in front of the Massachusetts State House. The statue was unveiled by Gov. Foster Furcolo in July 1959.

Emmons delivered a speech, noting that his ancestor had called on the Great & General Court (legislature) to abolish the brutal and tyrannical laws on the books, "in order that the truth may have free passage among you and you be kept from shedding innocent blood."

As she was being led to the hanging tree, she said, "Be of good courage, Dear Heavens, to her fellow Quakers, William Robinson and Marmaduke Stephenson."

Emmons first came to Wilmington as a boy of two, when his parents vacationed at the Ford-Blanchard house, across the street from where the fire took place. Elizabeth Blanchard, known as "Aunt Lizzie" ran a summer boarding house.

That vacation experience almost proved fatal for nearly everyone in the house, except for Paul. The maid put rat poison in the tea and everyone became violently ill. Had she used less poison, people probably would have died.

Lizzie Blanchard felt so bad about it that she gave the Emmons a piece of land. The Emmons' father, Judge William Henry Harrison Emmons was judge of the East Boston District Court. He later became the first police commissioner of the City of Boston. And he built a house that is now 313 Salem St.

Paul Emmons wrote of his father, "My fighting father was the most celebrated police commissioner Boston ever had."

Judge Emmons had served in the Civil War, in artillery, infantry and cavalry. His commission as an adjutant general of volunteers was signed by Abraham Lincoln. That document, along with many Civil War mementos, was lost in the fire. Emmons participated in 44 engagements and was wounded at Fort Royal. He was captured in an ambulance train by Moseby's guerillas, but escaped within an hour, despite a thigh wound that severed an artery. He later became chief of staff to the commanding general of New Orleans.

The house where Paul and Jennie Emmons lived and died was built by William E. Gowing as a wedding present for his daughter Annie, who married her cousin, Fred Gowing in 1888.

thinking woman's book. I don't think anyone has a book quite like mine. It's a medical mystery, but there are funny moments. Life can have comical moments, so I felt that was a critical element to my book."

Many of the details of Buscemi's life parallel Ravagni's own - they're both medical technologists with two sons, one of whom is a hockey fanatic.

"When I wrote it, I almost thought of her as my alter ego," Ravagni said. "I took to the saying that you write what you know about."

In fact, Ravagni, a 48-year-old Wilmington mother of two, says she first discovered her flair for creative writing through her current position as a technical consultant for Biosite, a company that develops and markets diagnostic products for laboratory medicine.

"I started writing funny poems to end our regional meetings, and that's when I realized I had a creative bent when it comes to putting a story out there and amusing people," Ravagni said.

"I'm enjoying the writing process, and I think as long as you're enjoying it you should pursue your passion,"

she said. "And I'm very passionate about this right now."

Ravagni said the frequent travel required as part of her job offered her the perfect opportunity to begin writing her book. She began writing her novel during down time at hotels and on planes, gradually expanding upon the characters she said had been "percolating in her mind." Less than a year later, her book was complete.

"I initially did it just for my own amusement," Ravagni said. "It wasn't like I sat there and thought of an audience; I was really just writing it down to express myself. It was only when I had co-workers read it and they got excited that I started to think about the book in broader strokes, and not just as a creative outlet."

After completing her book, Ravagni spent hours each weekend researching and submitting to literary agents. After 70 submissions without a single bite, Ravagni decided to take matters into her own hands and go the self-publishing route.

"I just felt like I couldn't sit on it for five years, and that's the kind of thing I could have ended up doing," she said.

Ravagni chose Dog Ear Publishing, a self-publishing provider based in Indianapolis, Indiana, to publish her work.

Now Ravagni's primary goal is to prove her marketability and land a book deal for a second book in her series which is currently nearing completion. To reach that goal, Ravagni is reaching out to readers in a variety of ways.

Ravagni, has placed her book at numerous independent booksellers in the North Shore area including Andover Bookstore and The Book Rack in Newburyport, as well as online retail giant Amazon.com. She will present a reading/author talk/book signing at The Book Rack, located at 52 State Street in Newburyport, on January 23, at 3:00 p.m.

Meanwhile, Ravagni is in the process of building her author's website www.susan-ravagni.com, where she offers an excerpt of her work and the beginnings of a little more information about herself as an author.

To her readers, Ravagni says, "I hope you enjoy this fun, easy read. It's got it all: action, adventure, mystery, and just a little romance...exactly how life should be."

Plunge raises dough

Dear Editor,
Thank you for your help promoting the Joey's Plunge Annual Kick-Off Party. This year we raised $3,290, which brings our three year total to over $9,000. The plunge this year, our 5th anniversary, rose over $32,000, bringing our five year total to over $100,000. We look forward to next year and hope you will continue to be part of our success.

Sincerely
Joey Cerato

"Unity Makes Strength"

By Joanne Benton
Superintendent of Wilmington Schools

The Wilmington Public Schools would like to reach out to the children of Haiti and show them we care. On Tuesday, January 19, as a show of solidarity with Haiti, we are asking all our students and staff to wear the colors of the Haitian flag (red and blue) and to donate one dollar from their savings or allowance to go directly to Haiti. If everyone participates we can raise $4500.00.

We have eight Haitian families in our schools. We want to show them we are concerned about their family and friends. Together we can make a difference.

The flag of Haiti was adopted on February 25, 1987. The national motto is on a white scroll reading L'Union Fait La Force ("Unity Makes Strength"). Help our school community unite together and help strengthen the spirit of Haitian children by donating one dollar at a time.

The students in the Wilmington Public Schools would also like to challenge surrounding school systems to follow our lead. All donations will go to World Vision. The agency has worked in Haiti for decades and has some 370 staff in-country.

For further information, please contact Joanne Benton, Superintendent of Schools at 978-694-6000

Article missed the mark

Dear Editor,
Regarding the article on Tewksbury Aides back to full time; the article implies that all the part-time aides are now on full time status. That is not the case. Since the aides were only working part-time, twice as many were needed. Now half of the aides were let go. Last year I worked full time as an aide. Since September, I have worked part-time. Now I have no job. The student that I was with this year lost both of his aides and has to get used to a new one. This is a major change for some of these students. I don't think the school committee handled this well at all.

Signed,
Ex-Aide

Give the gift of warmth

Letter to the Editor:
In addition to our state's high unemployment rate and the relatively high costs of living, the arrival of winter has Massachusetts families facing another cold reality - not being able to pay the monthly energy bill.

The Massachusetts Good Neighbor Energy Fund, administered by The Salvation Army, is often the last resort for families who are in need of energy assistance and who have not qualified for federal and state assistance programs. Unfortunately, due to the uncertain economy, the relatively high cost of energy and the falling temperatures, our local service center is seeing a dramatic rise in the number of requests for energy assistance over the last few weeks. In fact, we expect the urgency of need to continue to escalate through the winter and into the spring. With this in mind, those in need of energy assistance should visit their local Salvation Army Service Center or call (800) 262-1320 it they live in area code 413 or (800) 334-3047 if they live in area codes 508, 617, 781 or 978.

To help us satisfy the more than 5,000 requests for aid anticipated this winter alone, I appeal to everyone in the Woburn area to join their fellow residents in the Commonwealth and the sponsoring energy companies to "Give the Gift of Warmth." Energy customers can donate by using the mint-colored Good Neighbor Energy Fund donation envelopes found as an insert in their monthly energy bills or through the 'add a dollar' program some energy companies offer. People can also donate online by visiting www.magoodneighbor.org or by simply making a check payable to "The Good Neighbor Energy Fund" and sending it to The Salvation Army, 25 Shawmut Road, Canton, MA 02021-1408.

On behalf of all those families in need, thank you.

What's Cooking?

by Paula Murphy

Let Them Eat Cake!

Winter's a great time to turn the oven on and warm the kitchen with the scent of baked goods. These recipes are from Dottie Moscia's Reading kitchen.

Nonna's Special Cake

6 eggs, separated
1 cup sugar
1 tsp vanilla
2 heaping tsp baking powder
1 cup flour
Topping:
1 large can crushed pineapple
1 large can sliced peaches
1 1/2 pints of heavy whipping cream
3 tsp sugar

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Line two 9" round baking pans with wax paper.

Beat egg whites until foamy. Beat in egg yolks, one at a time, then add sugar and vanilla. Mix baking powder into the flour, and gradually add to the wet ingredients. Divide batter evenly between the two baking pans, and bake for 15-20 minutes, or until toothpick inserted in cake comes out dry. Turn cakes out onto rack to cool.

Whip cream with 3 tsp sugar until it peaks. Place one cake on a serving dish, and spread it with the crushed pineapple and 1 cup whipped cream. Place second cake on top. Drizzle it with the peach juice, and cover whole cake with the rest of the whipped cream. Decorate the top with sliced peaches. You can sprinkle slivered almonds around, too, if you like.

Lena's Marguerita Cake

5 eggs, separated
1/2 cup confectionary sugar
1 tbs lemon juice
1/4 tsp almond extract
1/2 cup cake flour
1/2 tsp vanilla extract
Frosting:
1 cup butter
2 cups cocoa powder
4 cups confectionary sugar
2 egg yolks
2 tbs rum
Preheat oven to 375 degrees, and grease a 10" square cake pan. Beat egg yolks until thick. Add sugar slowly and beat for 5 minutes. Add lemon juice and almond extract. Fold in flour. Beat egg whites until they peak, and fold into cake batter. Sprinkle bottom of cake pan with additional confectionary sugar. Pour batter in, and sprinkle with more confectionary sugar. Bake for 30 minutes, or until a toothpick inserted comes out dry. Turn cake out onto a rack, sprinkle with vanilla extract, and let cool.

For the frosting, cream together butter, cocoa and sugar. Beat egg yolks until thick and add to butter mixture. Add rum and mix well.

Dottie's Sour Cream Cake

2 cups all-purpose flour
1/4 tsp salt
1 tsp baking soda
1 cup sugar
1 tsp baking powder
1/2 pound butter

2 eggs
1/2 pint sour cream
1 tsp vanilla
Topping:
1 tsp cinnamon
1/3 cup sugar
1/2 cup crushed walnuts
1/2 cup chocolate chips
Preheat oven to 350 degrees, and grease and flour a tube pan. Mix together topping ingredients and set aside. Sift together flour, salt, and baking soda. Cream together sugar, baking powder, and butter. Add two eggs and mix well. Add sour cream and vanilla and mix well. Add dry ingredients to wet a little at a time (batter will be stiff). Pour half the batter into your tube pan, and sprinkle with half the topping mixture. Pour the rest of the batter on top, and sprinkle with remaining topping mixture. Bake for 35-45 minutes, or until toothpick inserted comes out dry.

TMHS Students Confront Destructive Lifestyles Love can be Blinding

TMHS Junior and Member of SADD

She fell in love fast
She wore her heart on her sleeve
She let him in
He wouldn't let her leave
He became controlling
He was possessive too
He'd push her around
And tell her what to do
She thought "If only I'd listen
He wouldn't get so mad,
And then maybe things
Wouldn't be so bad"
He picked out her flaws
And he'd make her feel bad
He made her believe
That he was all she had
She pushed away her friends
And even her family too
She felt so alone
She didn't know what to do
She knew things weren't right,
She knew she had to leave
But it was her fault somehow
Is what she still believes
Sometimes she misses him,
And all the good times they had
Then she remembers
All those times he got mad
The times he made her cry
Or when she was scared to speak
He broke her down
But he didn't make her weak
She put up with his abuse

For far too long
But now she knows
What's right from wrong.

According to dosomething.org and lovesrespect.org, 1 in 3 teens are abused in a relationship at least once in their lifetime and just about 80% of teen girls who have been physically abused continue to date their abuser. We want to stop the abuse! No one deserves the physical, sexual, verbal or emotional abuse. Many teens do not realize they're being abused because they think what they're going through is normal in a relationship.

If you think you or someone you know is being abused, here is what you can do. Talk to someone about it. Go to a friend or an adult you trust. Don't worry about hurting your partner's feelings. You need to think about YOU. You deserve so much more than the way he/she treats you. Don't be afraid to speak up, you have a voice.

The best thing to do is end the relationship. That's easier said than done, but here are some tips to help you. If you don't feel safe around your partner, try breaking up over the phone. It seems rude, but it's for your own safety. If you choose to break up in person, make sure you do it in a public place, like the mall and have your friends or an adult wait nearby. Make sure you tell your friends or parents about the break-up and if they're not already aware, about the abuse too! They'll provide you with support and safety.

If you know someone who is being abused, listen to them. Provide them with support. Don't be judgmental. Talk to them in private about why you're concerned. Offer them information about abuse. Don't force them to make a decision, but guide them; they have to decide for themselves when they're ready to make a change. If you know they're in danger and they still refuse help, SPEAK UP! Help them to get back on the right track. Together we can and together we will help put an end teen dating violence.

WCTV Staff Sounds Off!

We recently sat down with Mike Carroll, newest addition to WCTV's staff as Youth Outreach Coordinator and asked him to give us his thoughts about the world of Cable Access. Here's what he said:

Q: Mike, why did you get involved with Cable Access Television?

A: I feel that people should have the opportunity to have their message heard in a public forum. These days, there aren't many ways left to do that without spending a lot of money. WCTV provides the perfect opportunity to share your own ideas and at a fraction of the cost of what commercial television offers - and that's if commercial TV is even available for you to be able to share your thoughts. I became a staff member at WCTV because I believe in what we're doing here.

Q: What do you feel is the biggest misconception about Cable Access Television?

A: If anything, I'd say there's a misconception that Cable Access Television is somewhat sub-standard or not as professional as commercial TV. That idea couldn't be further from the truth! We work with state-of-the-art equipment and everyone on staff here has vast experience with both television and radio.

Thanks to emergency crews

Dear Editor,
On 12/21/09 I called 911 and told a dispatcher that I had fallen, but I would be okay until someone was able to arrive. I was told someone would be there for me. A very short time later firemen arrived. Dave Woods and his partner immobilized my leg and put me into a chair for travel. Other Firemen and Police officers arrived to help get me down the stairs to the ambulance for my ride to Lahey's emergency room. I had great service right up until the time I was put into an emergency room bed.

Thanks a lot, guys.
We town folk can sure be proud of both Fire & Police Depts., for what they do for us all.

Middlesex Canal National Register chronology

By Thomas Raphael

The Middlesex Canal Association (MCA) was incorporated in 1964 and in 1966. The intact remnants of the canal, from Woburn to Chelmsford, were placed in the National Register of Historic Places.

In 1977 the Middlesex Canal Commission (MCC) was authorized and three noted archaeologists, the Industrial Archaeology Associates (IAA), were hired to provide a comprehensive inventory of the canal. They traversed and recorded, including aerial photographs, the whole route of the canal, its location, its condition and significant features. In 1980 they published the Middlesex Canal Heritage Park Feasibility Study, which recommended preservation and reuse of the canal. In 1980-1985, the MCC placed stone monuments with brass plaques, showing the route of the canal, in each of the nine canal communities.

In 1996 the Massachusetts Historical Commission (MHC) suggested that the complete length of the canal should be recorded in the National Register. A review at the Metropolitan Area Planning Commission (MAPC) indicated that there were no maps showing the detailed record of the current lots of the canal route in the overbuilt parts of Charlestown, Somerville, Medford and Winchester. These would be needed for the National Register as well as for any restoration effort. In March 1996 Tom Raphael started the deed and assessor map research to enable the MAPC's Geographic Information Systems (GIS) laboratory to assemble a Map Book. This produced a corresponding, community by community, list of the canal lot owners.

Concurrently, on October 20, 1997 a group of 17 people met at the National Park Service Office in Lowell to form a committee to consider the MHC proposal to revise the National Register. Present were Bruce McHenry, leader (MCA), Nolan Jones (MCA), Tom Raphael (MCA, MCC), Betty Bigwood (MCA, MCC), Bettina Harrison (MCA), Mike Wurm (National Park Service, Lowell), Thomas Mahlstedt (Metropolitan District Commission (MDC, MCC), Paul Spina (MAPC), Frank Noonan (MHC), Brian Knight (MHC), Michael Steinitz (MHC), Jessica Rowcroft (MHC), Leonard Lopata (MHC), Virginia Adams Public Archaeology Laboratory (PAL), James Garman (PAL), Paul A. Russo (PAL) and Mathew A. Kierstad (PAL). They agreed to pursue placing the whole route of the canal on the National Register.

In September 1998, using an MHC Grant, the PAL was hired to prepare the basic nomination information. PAL accumulated all available historic and background literature, researched the archaeological resources, the environmental setting and the Native American usage from the Paleo-Indian Period (12,000 BP). They walked and photographed the canal corridor and prepared a complete description of current conditions. In September 1999, PAL submitted their report.

In an April 12, 2000, letter to Nolan T. Jones (President, MCA) MHC said that, based on MHC files, research by MCA and the PAL Survey and Planning Report, the canal should be eligible for nomination to the National Register and that Betsy Friedberg and Leonard Lopato of MHC would be available to explain the format and answer questions on how to proceed. As the information was being assembled and the work progressed, it became obvious that a professional historic consultant would have to be hired to complete the nomination.

Susan Keats, a professional who had done several nominations of Winchester historic districts, offered to prepare the canal's National Register Nomination, at no charge. On February 2002, all of the previous work was turned over to Susan to be assembled into the required format for the nomination. By September 3, 2003, Susan sent MHC the preliminary sections, the narrative, the matrix of data sheets and the Map Book, for review. These three separate documents had to be arranged so they were consistent with each other. They were reviewed at every step by each of the specialized members of the MHC staff.

As the nomination was being developed, it was found the property lots of the canal owners could not be accurately superimposed on MassHighway Street maps or State GIS or United States Geological Survey (USGS) maps. Waterfield Engineering Associates (WEA) proposed and was hired to sequentially scan all the assessor plates and configure them into a Map Book. The owners of the lots the canal formerly ran through were identified, and meetings were conducted by MHC in each community to notify owners of the nomination and receive their comments and approval.

On March 15, 2006 in a letter from MHC to Nolan, the canal was declared eligible for inclusion in the Massachusetts State Register of Historic Places and for nomination to the National Register of Historic Places. However, in December 2006, MHC requested further work to include a number of non-related structures of the period along the canal. This required new research, segment by segment, and then the addition of the new compilations to the corresponding segments of the Map Book and the matrix of data sheets. This was completed by January 2008. By this point, however, new photographs of the current conditions were needed, as the previous photos were ten years old. On March 4 2009, Nolan Jones submitted the new photographs.

On October 2, 2009 MHC submitted the nomination to the National Park Service for inclusion in National Register

In Summation

This whole project lasted 13 years, involved countless hours of volunteer effort, of salaried staff and direct contract costs in excess of $50,000.

The Middlesex Canal now has one further record to assure its rightful place in history.

Pop Band "One Step Away" has advanced to the Season Finals, which will be aired from January 22-25 on various Boston Television stations. (courtesy photo).

One Step Away in TV show season finals

To be aired January 22 through 25

WILMINGTON - After winning four consecutive Episodes of the New England TV Talent Showcase Competition Community Auditions, One Step Away has advanced to the Season Finals which will be aired on January 22 through 25 on many New England TV Stations including Boston TV Stations WBZ and WSBK TV38. The competition took place at the MGM Grand Theater at the Foxwoods Resort Casino in CT.

Young Pop Rock band One Step Away became a Finalist in the New England TV Talent Showcase Community Auditions after winning four Episodes of the TV Show last summer. One Step Away is comprised of Adam Carrington of Andover (Lead Vocals), Terence Healy of Wilmington (Lead Guitar), Mike Nuzzolo of Andover (Bass and Vocals), and Alex Kwmuntis of Peabody (Drums). Episode 4 of the Finals will be aired on January 22-24, 2010 in all eight New England DMAs and exclusively on Verizon FiOS Local Zone Video on Demand. The programs are presented on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays:

Friday, 9:30 p.m. on (WSBK TV38 Boston); Sunday 6:30 p.m. on (WCTX MyTV New Haven); Saturday 10 p.m. on (WPXT-TV Portland's CW); Saturday midnight and Sunday 12:30 am on (WBZ-TV CBS 4 Boston); Saturday 11:30 a.m. on (MY R.I. TV Providence); Sunday nights at midnight or 12:30 a.m. (based on football schedules) on (WWLP-Springfield).

A number of New England TV and radio personalities, and well-known musicians and comedians, were on hand at the event including American Idol's Justin Guarini, Finalist Ayla Brown and America's Got Talent Finalist Mia Boostrom. One Step Away chose to perform their newest song in the Finals: "Hook Line and Sinker." More on the Season Finals can be found at the Community Auditions website: <http://communityauditions.com/finals/>

Quote on One Step Away from Entertainment Critic Joyce Kulhawik: "You are terrific - an incredibly charismatic and a very tight band. You've got it all."

One Step Away is now busy writing new songs and putting together new videos, many now on YouTube. Their next public concert will be "Rock the House" benefit concert on February 6 for the Samaritans Teen Hotline to be held at the at the Ballard Vale United Church in Andover. Other concerts lining up include the Jimmy Fund Scooper Bowl and Boston Harborfest. Check their Myspace profile for a complete list of shows and times: www.myspace.com/1stepawayband.

About Community Auditions:

In 1987 "Community Auditions: Star of the Day" became the longest-running entertainment series in television history, after 37 continuous years of song, dance, magic and comedy. On each episode, three performers compete to become the "Star of the Day." Contestants are rated by a three-judge panel made up of radio DJs, record producers and other entertainment experts. Added to their opinions are those of the studio audience and viewers at home. Home viewers can support their hometown heroes by voting online at communityauditions.com.

MEMA now utilizing social media to disseminate messages

Public encouraged to follow MEMA on Facebook and Twitter

FRAMINGHAM - The Massachusetts Emergency Management Agency (MEMA) has begun using Social Media resources to better inform and protect the public before, during and after emergencies in the Commonwealth. The addition of Facebook and Twitter will not be replacing the more traditional avenues that MEMA continues to utilize to contact and inform Media and Public Safety partners but enable MEMA to reach new and greater audiences in a timely manner.

MEMA can be followed on Facebook by searching

'Massachusetts Emergency Management' and on Twitter at www.twitter.com/MassEMA.

During a natural or technological emergency MEMA will provide important messages to the public on these sites. Between disasters, MEMA's messages will continue to focus on individual preparedness and responsibility.

The Massachusetts Emergency Management Agency (MEMA) is the state agency responsible for coordinating federal, state, local, voluntary and private resources during emergencies and disasters in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. MEMA provides leadership to develop plans for effective response to all hazards, disasters or threats; train emergency personnel to protect the public; provide information to the citizenry; and assist individuals, families, businesses and communities to mitigate against, prepare for, and respond to and recover from emergencies, both natural and man made. For additional information about MEMA, go to www.mass.gov/mema.

OBITUARIES

Shirley Marie Graves

Retired from Prudential Insurance Company; US Navy Veteran

READING - Shirley Marie (Nelson) Graves, age 89, of Reading, died Tuesday, January 19, 2010, at Wingate of Reading following a brief illness. Born in Chelsea, MA, on May 11, 1920, Shirley was the dear daughter of the late William and Gladys (Hegner) Nelson. Shirley grew up in Revere and Medford, she was a graduate of Medford High School and went on to Secretarial School in Boston. She was a secretary for the New England Trust Company in Boston for a few years before enlisting in the United States Navy where she served her country during WWII and was honorably discharged on June 4, 1946.

Upon returning from the Navy, Shirley accepted a secretarial job with the Prudential Insurance Company in Boston where she worked for many years until her retirement.

Shirley married Walter A. Graves, Jr. in 1955, the couple moved to Stoneham in 1960 and were residents there until 1982 when they moved to Melrose. Shirley lived in Melrose until 2007 and was an active member of the Trinity Episcopal Church and worked part-time in the Church Thrift Shoppe. Shirley resided in Reading from 2007 until her passing.

Shirley will be remembered as a very active lady, she was very social and had lots of friends, she loved to play cards, and enjoyed spending time at the ocean in Rockport, Marblehead, and Maine.

Shirley was the beloved wife of the late Walter A. Graves, Jr., devoted mother of Sharon Magdelinskas & her husband Paul of Wilmington, dear sister of William Nelson & his wife Eleanor of Sun City West, AZ, loving aunt of Gary Nelson of California, Sherrie & Dan Black, and Laurie Nelson all of Illinois, she is also survived by many dear friends.

Shirley's family will be receiving people at the Nichols Funeral Home, Inc., 187 Middlesex Ave. (Rte. 62), Wilmington on Saturday, January 23rd from 10:00 - 11:00 a.m. followed by a Funeral Home Service at 11:00 a.m. Interment will take place in Charles Lawn Cemetery, Reading.

Memorial donations in Shirley's name may be made to the Trinity Episcopal Church, 131 West Emerson St., Melrose, MA 02176.

Meghan Mary McCarthy

An inspiration to all who came to know her; 17

TEWKSBURY - Meghan Mary McCarthy, age 17, a Tewksbury Memorial High School Senior who received her T.M.H.S. Diploma in a semi-private bedside ceremony on January 13th, died Tuesday, January 19th surrounded by her loving family, following an incredible and inspirational journey that began with a medical diagnosis of glioblastoma multiforme in June of her Freshman year at Tewksbury Memorial High School. Her two and a half year journey has been highlighted with a meeting with the Jonas Brothers Band, countless trips to Fenway Park that included a personal meeting with her favorite player Dustin Pedroia, a personal meeting with the Red Sox players at Spring Training in Ft. Myers, Florida, and a Make-A-Wish "Swim with the Dolphins" at Atlantis in the Bahamas. Her amazing journey has also included the honor of being a Poster Child for the Stop and Shop's Brain Tumor Awareness Campaign, being a Keynote Speaker for the annual "Par Fore the Cure" fundraiser, being named one of the Lowell Sun Newspaper's Most Fascinating People of 2008, throwing out the first pitch at Dustin Pedroia Day at the LeLacheur Field's Lowell Spinner's Baseball game, a Flying Henrys Pedal Partner in the Pan Mass Challenge, and the January 2010 "Hat's Off" recipient offered by the Tewksbury Rotary Club. Along the way she has raised more than twenty two thousand dollars toward the fight to cure cancer in the Rally Against Cancer, and inspired countless others to donate time or money as well.

Her life began in Nashua, NH, on August 17, 1992, when born to Lisette "Lee" (Paquette) McCarthy of Tewksbury, and James F. McCarthy of Laconia, NH. She resided in Tewksbury her entire life.

In her youth, she was active in Tewksbury Youth Girls Basketball, and continued into her senior year as a member of the TMHS Girls Basketball Team. She also was active in Tewksbury Youth Soccer. She was a four year player and senior year Captain of the TMHS Field Hockey Team, and was also a member of the TMHS Women's Track and Field team during her freshman and sophomore years, stopping only when chemotherapy moved her to the sidelines.

Besides her parents, she is survived by her mother's life partner Ronald Parizo of Tewksbury; two brothers, Teagan S. McCarthy of Tewksbury, and Tyler H. McCarthy of Tewksbury; maternal grandparents, F. Andre and Margaret (LaPlante) Paquette of Laconia, NH; paternal grandmother, Helen (Dellheim) McCarthy of Boxford; many aunts, uncles, cousins and dear friends; along with her faithful friend and family dog, Cloe.

She was predeceased by a sister and brother in their infancy, Michelle and Francis McCarthy; and her paternal grandfather, Eugene McCarthy.

Relatives and friends will be received Friday, Jan. 22, from 2 to 5, and 6 to 9 in the Tewksbury Funeral Home, corner of Dewey and Main Sts. (Rte 38) TEWKSBURY CENTER, phone (800 in MA or 978) 851 2950. Her funeral will begin Saturday, Jan. 23, at 9:00 a.m. from the funeral home, followed by a Funeral Mass at 10:00 a.m. in St. William's Church, 1351 Main St. (Rte 38) Tewksbury. Burial will follow at St. Mary Cemetery, No. Tewksbury. KINDLY OMIT FLOWERS. Memorials to the Pan Mass Challenge / The Flying Henrys, c/o Sherry Iuliano, 411 Salem Street, Wilmington, MA 01887, will be appreciated. tewksburyfuneralhome.com

TMHS Cheerleaders help 'kick-off event'

On January 11th, the Tewksbury Memorial High School Basketball Cheerleaders served as guides and greeters at the Regional Office of the U.S. Census Bureau along with US Congresswoman Niki Tsongas, State Senator Sue Tucker and State Representative Jim Miceli.

This was a "kickoff event" for the office which serves an area from Haverhill to Ashby to Framingham. Many city and town officials attended the event. Congresswoman Tsongas was the keynote speaker.

The TMHS Cheerleaders were proud to do this community service event. The cheerleading team pictured with Tsongas, Tucker and Miceli includes (in no order): seniors Lauren Scheipers, Lindsey Vieira, Brittany Tosto, Jacalyn Kennedy and Delany Carr; juniors Megan Grayson, Kayla Benvenuto, Shannon Heafey and Becca Stronach; sophomores Courtney Spinelli and Amanda Romano; and freshmen Cassidy Blake, Marissa Liggiero, Courtney Guttadauro, Natalie Bourne, Nicole Zanchi and Gianna Pino. (courtesy photo).

Tsongas co-sponsors legislation to block congressional pay raise

WASHINGTON, DC - Congresswoman Niki Tsongas recently cosponsored legislation to prevent a scheduled pay raise for Members of Congress from taking effect next calendar year, January 2011. Tsongas was part of the successful effort last year to block the 2010 Congressional pay raise, which would have gone into effect at the beginning of this month. Because of a 1989 rule change, Congress automatically receives a pay raise unless they vote specifically to reject the raise. For that reason, legislation to reject the raise must be introduced a year before it is scheduled to take effect. Tsongas released the following statement about her sponsorship of the bill.

"Families across Massachusetts and our nation are facing historically difficult economic circumstances. Many have lost their jobs, homes, and retirement savings since the beginning of this crisis. The economy has also forced our cities and towns to layoff workers and reduce essential services. This is not the time for members of Congress to receive a pay raise.

"Existing law provides Members of Congress with an automatic cost of living adjustment along with other federal employees, unless Congress passes legislation which would exclude them from the pay raise. The legislation I have cosponsored would prevent the scheduled pay raise from going into effect next year. Our efforts last year were successful in blocking the pay raise that would have taken effect this month. I will be working to see that a similar result is achieved with the Fiscal Year 2011 pay raise."

Tsongas did not accept the Congressional pay raise in either 2008 or 2009 choosing instead to donate the amount of the pay raise to charitable organizations.

CHiL Semiconductor Corp. welcomes Iansiti to its BOD

Brings expertise in new product development and strategy

TEWKSBURY - CHiL Semiconductor Corporation, a leading developer of high-performance, mixed-signal power management integrated circuits, announces that Dr. Marco Iansiti has joined its board of directors. With a particular expertise in information technology and management as well as new product development and strategy, Dr. Iansiti is expected to advise CHiL as it expands its markets and customer base.

Dr. Iansiti is currently director of research at Harvard University's Graduate School of Business Administration. He also holds the David Sarnoff Professorship in technology and operations management and has developed and taught courses in technology strategy, entrepreneurship, innovation, and product development.

Dr. Iansiti has led product and strategy teams for software development firms, served as consultant and advisor on strategy and innovation for a variety of companies in different industries, and co-founded a management consulting firm focusing on strategy and expert consulting for a number of clients, including those among the Fortune 1000. Dr.

Iansiti holds a PhD in physics and is the author of numerous books, articles, and research papers focused on technology and innovation.

"I was excited to join CHiL's board of directors because of the quality of the management team as well as the cutting edge green power technology they have delivered to the market," said Dr. Iansiti. "The company has unique advantages that will be important in driving the adoption of green high-performance computing."

According to Ram Sudireddy, CHiL's chief executive officer, "We are delighted to add someone with Dr. Iansiti's business and academic experience and strategic expertise to our board." He added, "CHiL expects to ramp up significantly in 2010, expanding its markets and customer base, and more than doubling its product offering. We look forward to Dr. Iansiti's advice and guidance."

About CHiL Semiconductor Corporation

Founded in 2006, CHiL Semiconductor Corporation develops high-performance, mixed-signal power management integrated circuits primarily targeted at servers, personal computers and other high-volume high-density computing market segments. CHiL's devices tightly integrate digital power technology, precisely monitoring and securely controlling the power management process. Providing significant innovations in architecture, control and monitoring, CHiL devices help developers achieve high power efficiency and performance gains, while reducing system design time and complexity. RMLD honors local elementary school students

READING - Reading Municipal Light Department (RMLD) recently honored 14 elementary school students from the four towns in its service territory for their prize-winning entries in the Annual RMLD T-shirt Contest. The students were recognized at a ceremony at the RMLD in Reading by RMLD General Manager Vin Cameron and the members of both the RMLD Board of Light Commission and Citizens' Advisory Board.

A first, second and third place winner from each town and two honorable mentions from the Town of Reading were selected in the annual contest that encourages third and fourth graders to be careful around electricity and to become more energy conscious and aware of their own impact on the environment.

The contest coincides with RMLD's annual Public Power

Week/Energy Awareness Month activities. The students learned about wind power, solar power, hydropower and other renewable sources of non-polluting energy, as well as electrical safety during their fall curriculum. They also learned about green energy and how to save energy at school and home. Using this information, the Reading third graders and fourth graders from North Reading, Wilmington and Lynnfield were encouraged to turn their knowledge into creative works of art as part of the contest.

The 14 winners were selected based on their message and artwork that they created on the T-shirts.

The winning entries were displayed at RMLD's Reading Business Office and on a calendar presented to the students and their families at the ceremony. Each participating student and their respective elementary schools in the RMLD service area have also received calendars.

The following Wilmington students were honored at the awards ceremony:

1st place - Francesca Choi, West Intermediate School
2nd place - Jasmine Le, North Intermediate School
3rd place - Jake Fulkerson, North Intermediate School

In addition to individual recognition, first place winners Hattie Damon of the Killam School, Reading; Adam Pierce of the Little School, North Reading; Francesca Choi of the West Intermediate School, Wilmington; and Sydney Santosuosso of the Huckleberry Hill School, Lynnfield also won a $200 art gift certificate from RMLD for their schools.

Aubuchon Hardware to organize collections for Haiti orphanage

Westminster, MA, January 15, 2010: The WE. Aubuchon Company has announced that they will join the massive efforts around the world to assist in the earthquake relief efforts for Haiti. The company will utilize its distribution center, located in Westminster, MA as a final collection point for supplies. These supplies will then be distributed to a location in Colorado Springs, CO where they will immediately be shipped to Haiti.

The Aubuchons have been in contact with a coordinator from God's Littlest Angels (<http://www.glahaiti.org/>), one of the orphanages in Haiti that is in desperate need of supplies for the children. Some of the items needed are: baby diapers, baby wipes, baby formula, baby rice cereal and infant/childrens vitamins. We also hope to be able to assist the surrounding community with clothing, medical supplies, household items, hygiene items such as soap, toothbrushes, toothpaste, blankets and towels.

Anyone wishing to help should purchase any of the above items and bring them to the local Aubuchon Hardware store in Tewksbury by Monday, February 15.

Seeking Library Stories

We are interested in getting stories about how the Wilmington Memorial Library has helped you. For example, has the library helped you get the answer to an important question, find information that has saved you money or make an informed decision about a financial matter? Has a librarian helped you discover a good book that you may not have found on your own? Do you have an example of a good service experience? Did you attend a library event that was especially informative or entertaining? Why do you like to visit our library? If you have any library stories that you are willing to share as part of our promotion of the library as a valuable service, please email Library Director Tina Stewart at tstewart@wmlc.org. Please note that to validate the testimonial, that will be used in promotional material online and/or in print, we require that stories include your name.

Window Treatment Options

Thursday, January 21, 7 pm
Jackie Davis, interior decorator and owner of Roomscape Interiors, will help you decide the best option for your window treatments. She will discuss how to measure windows, hard versus soft treatments, and off the shelf versus custom made.

How to Live a Green Lifestyle

Tuesday, January 26, 7 pm
Dan Ruben, Executive Director of Boston Green Tourism, will share actions for consumers to lead greener lives including options for greener transportation, households, and the reduction of energy and water consumption.

Mars and Venus Series Relating to Women

Tuesday, February 2, 7 pm
Learn about gender and personality differences, ways men can relate to women more effectively and how the two sexes can bridge the gap that so often creates havoc in relationships. Specific tips will be presented to men that will be verified by women. Women and men are invited to attend. This program will be presented by Herb Pearce, M.Ed., a personality types expert on the Enneagram and Myers-Briggs, a relationship couples coach and therapist.

Relating to Men

Wednesday, Feb 17, 7 pm
We laugh about the differences between the genders, but not without frustration and the wish to know; "How can I make him understand?" This interactive seminar will be an opportunity for discussion and learning about how men and women think differently, deal with feelings, and communicate in very different ways. Understanding and having some tools can help you close the gap and improve communication and relationships. Women and men are invited to attend. This program will be presented by Roberta Taylor, RNCS, M.Ed., a career/life transition coach and couples relationship coach.

Epilepsy Foundation opens Community Donation Center

Epilepsy Foundation of Massachusetts and Rhode Island has opened new channel for support. Community Donation Center is open for clothes and household items drop off.

The Epilepsy Foundation of Massachusetts and Rhode Island (EFMRI) has launched Epilepsy Foundation New England Donation Center, LLC, to collect gently used clothing, clothing accessories, shoes, household items (kitchenware, dinnerware, and glassware), curtains, draperies and furniture. The sale of the collected clothing and household items to Savers, Inc. generates revenue for EFMRI's programs to support families living with Epilepsy.

The headquarters of EFMRI, which includes a convenient attended community donation site, is located at 357 Middlesex Avenue, Wilmington, MA, alongside the Registry of Motor Vehicles.

A Grand Opening Weekend is scheduled for January, 15, 16 and 17, with a ribbon cutting ceremony and refreshments taking place at 10:00 a.m. on January, 15.

About Epilepsy: The Epilepsy Foundation of Massachusetts and Rhode Island's mission is to ensure that people with seizures are able to participate in all life experiences and to work toward prevention, control and a cure for epilepsy through advocacy, education, research, and support services. Visit www.EFMRI.org for more information.

About Savers: Founded in 1954, Savers, Inc. is privately held for-profit international thrift store chain with more than 200 locations in the United States, Canada and Australia, also known as Value Village in the Western United States and Canada provinces (and as Village Des Valeurs in Quebec). The company benefits more than 120 local nonprofit organizations by purchasing and reselling donated items. The result has been over one billion dollars directly paid to nonprofit organizations. The company employs more than 10,000 people in 23 states, 10 Canadian provinces and Australia. Visit www.savers.com for more information.

Mr. Brown goes to Washington

Traffic was a challenge at the Boutwell School, which is typical due to the location, but was further complicated by school being in session Tuesday at both the Boutwell and the Wildwood. George praised the School Department for doing an outstanding job for the election and will request that school be dismissed for future major elections to help out with traffic and congestion within the school buildings themselves.

"This was a chance to change the direction in Massachusetts. It's a rare circumstance," voter Rick Bass told the Crier, after voting for Brown at Town Hall. Bass, who works in the healthcare industry, opposes both plans in Congress in part because they are not bipartisan and for the deals given out to secure Senate votes. "I do support a healthcare plan, but not this one by a long shot. I, like many people, am concerned about taxes and spending in Washington. This is a rare opportunity to make a difference."

"We wanted a change," said Donna G. "If you don't vote, you can't complain."

Danielle, preferring to maintain her anonymity, said, "You vote on voting day," but added that she did not like the negative ads and supported Brown as a "positive, fresh face."

Another voter, identifying herself as a healthcare worker, told the Crier that she voted on the healthcare issue saying, "I think it's a big mistake for the country. I think that the countries that have adopted similar policies are sorry and they would like to change it back."

Julie Hayes supported Martha Coakley, "because I wanted to see a united front for Massachusetts in the Senate. Its not just about healthcare. I don't want to see Kerry and Brown infighting - I want them to be unified. I want to see common ground."

"With all the energy that we have right now with Obama in office, I don't think Massachusetts is at a point where we want to change that energy," said Hayes. "We're going in a good direction, let's ride the wave."

Another voter, preferring to use just her first name, told the Crier that, "This is the big one. I think we might get some change in Massachusetts with this vote," said Lisa.

Voters praised the poll workers for keeping the voting moving, and minimal wait if any at all.

Conventional wisdom thought that the race for the Massachusetts senate seat, held by Ted Kennedy for over 40 years, was the Democrats to lose, and lose they did.

The senate race captured national attention in recent weeks as Republican Scott Brown began to gain on Martha Coakley's 20 percent lead coming out of the primary. The last two weeks in particular saw the most telling, and turning, moments of the campaign. The last debate arguably held the defining moment campaign when Brown reminded his opponent and the electorate that the senate seat is "not the Kennedy seat, not the Democrat's seat; it's the people's seat."

The Coakley campaign tried to capitalize on that comment with an ad featuring Vicki Kennedy saying a similar line, but it fell flat.

Coakley, who was criticized by Democratic Party officials before the campaign was over for not campaigning vigorously following the primary election, came on strong after the last debate being the first to launch negative attack ads.

"I always respect the voters choice and that's what I told Scott Brown," said Coakley in her concession speech. She called Brown to concede at 9:15 p.m. after the Associated Press called the election for Brown. Knowing that the nation was observing, Coakley acknowledged a great deal of anger in voters throughout Massachusetts.

Voters the Criers spoke to in both Wilmington and Tewksbury came out largely on the issues - particularly healthcare - reinforcing the notion that the Massachusetts election was a referendum on President Obama's agenda.

While national democrats began blaming Coakley for lack of direction and proper campaigning, other actions in Washington may have contributed to her loss, beginning with the Christmas Eve vote in the Senate passing the healthcare bill. Further, the White House and Congress cut deals promising no future increases to the state of Nebraska and exempting unions from taxes on so-called "Cadillac" health care plans.

Other gaffes by Coakley hurt her campaign, including criticizing Brown for campaigning at Fenway Park during the Winter Classic, saying that Al Qaeda had left Afghanistan, and calling legendary Red Sox World Series bloody sock pitcher Curt Shilling 'a Yankees fan.'

After bringing out all the stops, including stumping with Vicki Kennedy, former president Bill Clinton, and President Obama, none of it resonated with voters.

Brown worked to campaign as an independent voice, eschewing help from most national republican figures, and promised to be the 41st vote against the health care bill. During his acceptance speech, while the large audience chanted 'Gas up the truck' Brown said, "The independent voice of Massachusetts has spoken," and praised his supporters for defying the odds. He thanked Coakley and praised Senator Kennedy as "a force like no other in this state."

"I will try to be a worthy successor to the late Senator Kennedy," said Brown. "When there is trouble in Massachusetts, rest assured there is trouble everywhere, and they know it."

Town Clerk Sharon George thanked especially the custodian at the Boutwell School, David Elliot, the custodian at the Wildwood School, Scott Bishop, and the custodians at Town Hall, Kathy Warford and Mike Larocca.

"I also want to thank all my wonderful poll workers who worked diligently all day long," said George, who had 40 poll workers at this election. "I also want to thank my assistant Town Clerk Carolyn Kenney and my wonderful Senior Clerk, Phyllis Vieira."

The Clerk's office worked more than 15 hours Tuesday to make the election, which was weeks in the planning, a success. George said that the election was the busiest for absentee voting since the Presidential election in November 2008.

In Wilmington the vote broke down by precinct this way:

In Precinct 1 Brown won 986 votes, 480 for Coakley, and 9 for Kennedy.

Precinct 2 has 1052 votes for Brown, 457 for Coakley, 20 for Kennedy, and 2 write-in candidates.

Precinct 3 saw 1139 votes for Brown, 535 for Coakley, and 16 for Kennedy.

Precinct 4 won 1053 votes for Brown, Coakley won 543 votes, 9 for Kennedy and one write-in.

Precinct 5 saw 1042 votes for Brown, 569 for Coakley, and 18 for Kennedy.

Precinct 6 saw 953 votes for Brown, 473 for Coakley, 9 for Kennedy, and 1 write-in vote. No ballots were left blank

Wilmington residents Rossetti and Wilkins shine for Rams Hockey team

Blueliners a pain for opposing forwards

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

WILMINGTON — Hockey players are generally regarded as among the toughest of all athletes, able to overcome injuries and play through pain that would sideline athletes in other sports. The Shawsheen Tech hockey is fortunate enough to know first hand just how tough a hockey player can be, and they have been reminded twice this season by a pair of local defensemen who have battled through pain and injury to lead the team to a 7-2-1 start as they look to defend their Division 3 North Sectional title.

Senior defensemen Cody Wilkins and Jesse Rossetti, both of Wilmington have both been a huge part of the Rams success so far this season, just as they were last year when the Rams advanced all the way to the state championship game at TD Garden before losing to Shrewsbury.

But what they have done this year may be even impressive than their season last year, as both players are coming back from major injuries and have managed to put the pain aside in order to help the Rams stay on the winning track.

Rossetti missed most of the Rams preseason after tearing his ACL, MCL and meniscus late in the lacrosse season. He was forced to miss the state tournament for the lacrosse team and it took six months of rehab, but Rossetti was back for the start of the regular season.

"I hated to miss the lacrosse tournament and then I had the whole recovery period including the summer where I could not really do anything," Rossetti said. "It was hard at the start of the season to get back in shape, and I am still wearing a brace now. It still feels sore on some occasions but that's it. I can play through it."

And Wilkins has had injury issues of his own, playing through a torn labrum all season long. Like Rossetti, Wilkins prefers to play through any pain to help the team.

"During games, with the adrenaline flowing it does not really hurt," Wilkins said. "After the game I have to ice it down because that's when it is painful."

Shawsheen coach Chuck Baker has been impressed with the pair's ability to play through their pain, but he is not all that surprised with the effort they have put in.

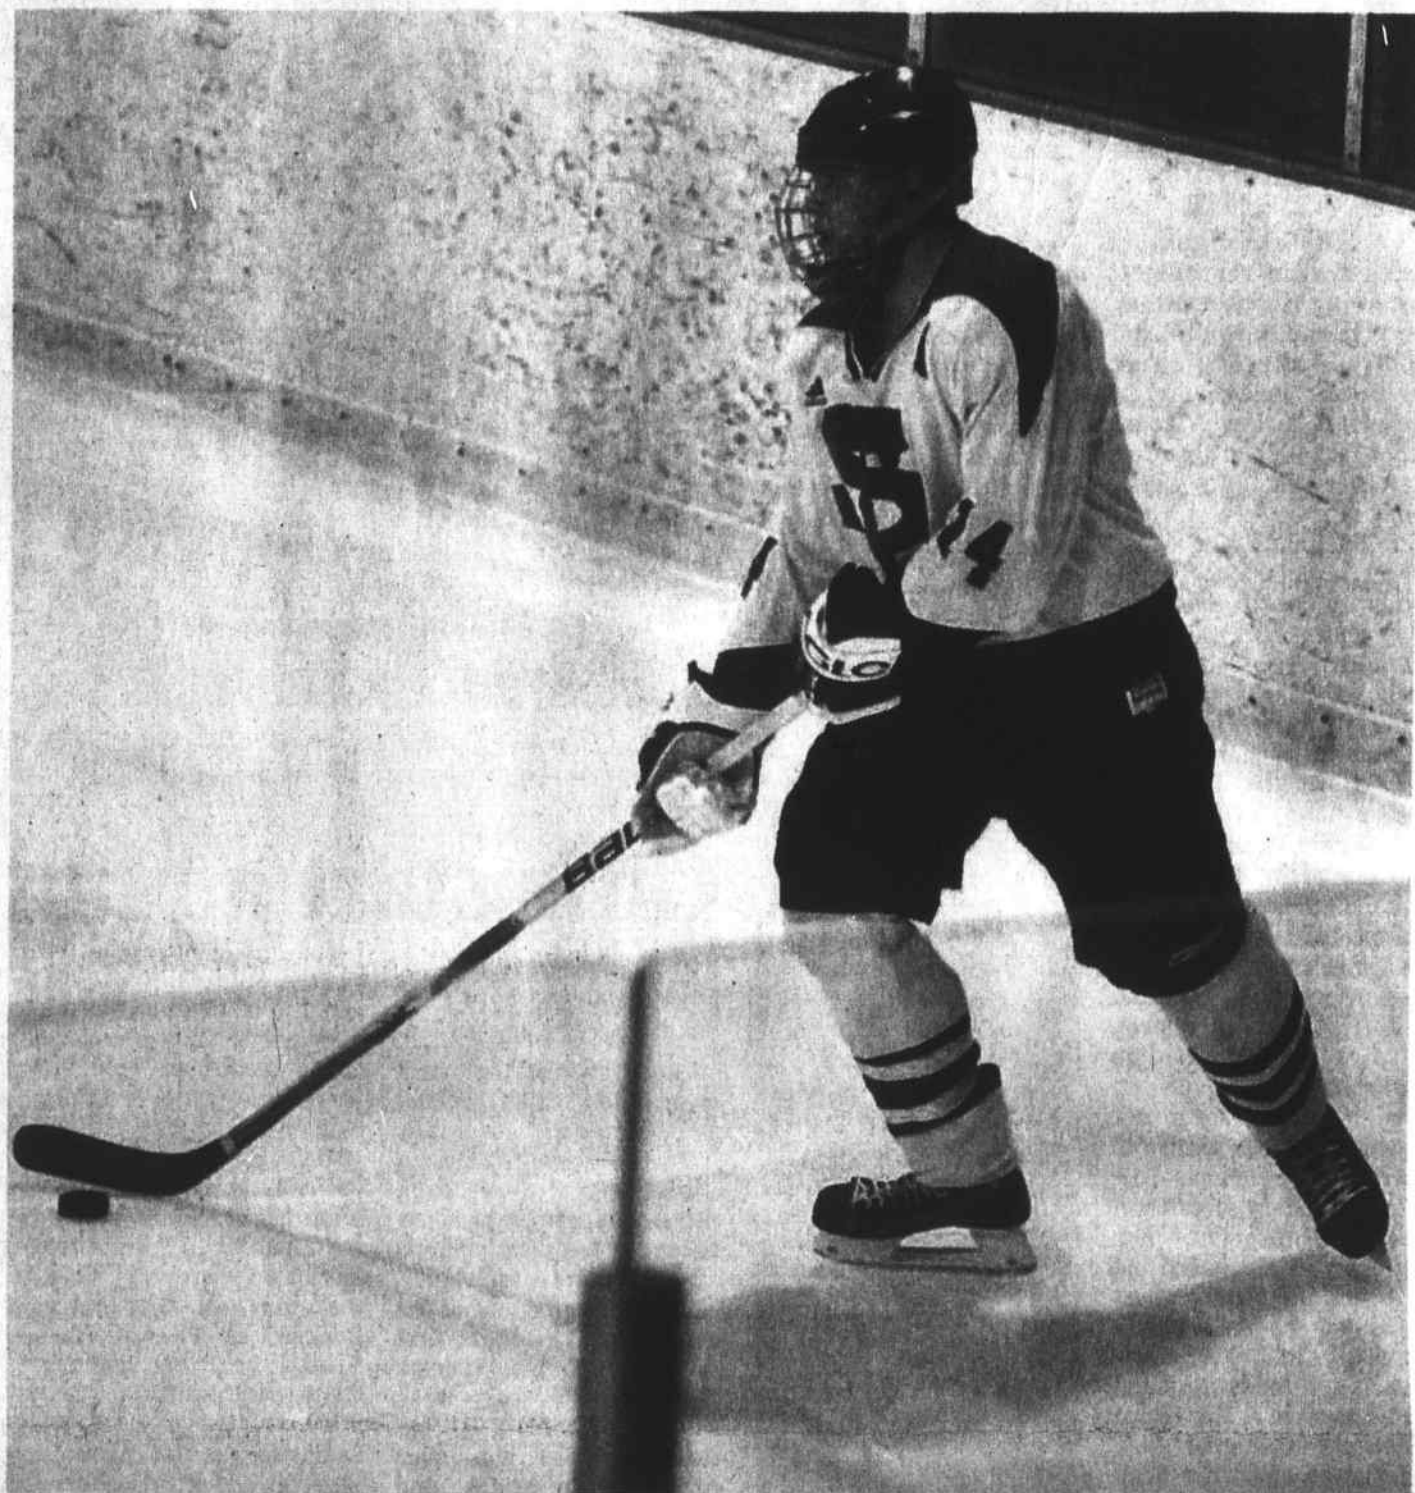

"They are both very dedicated to the team and to the sport," Baker said. "I couldn't expect much more out of a couple of seniors."

Injuries or not, both players have been outstanding all season for the Rams, playing a defensive game while also providing some offensive punch. Rossetti in particular has shown the ability to put the puck in the net, including a two goal game last week in a Rams victory. Rossetti, a former forward for the Rams, is also the fourth leading scorer on the season for the Rams.

"I like playing defense and I have been doing it most of my life, but I also liked when I had the chance to play forward," Rossetti said. "I did try to rush the puck whenever I have the chance. I like to go end to end if I can."

Baker knows that he has a special weapon in Rossetti on the blue line.

"We have used him as a forward at times during his sophomore and junior years," Baker said. "He is very good with the puck. He's got offensive moves, although he is also a solid defensive defenseman."

Wilkins also has some offensive punch, but he is more of a stay at home defenseman and it is a role that he enjoys. Of course, he's got now objection to putting the puck in the net either, but he takes pride in his defensive ability.

"I actually grew up playing forward, but when I was playing Pee Wees my dad was the coach and he moved me back to defense and I liked it," Wilkins said. "I like having the game in front of me and being able to make a play. I do like to get up into the offensive zone, but I try to stay back as much as possible."

Baker knows he is fortunate to have a pair of experienced players at defense and in fact the only thing he likes better than the way they play for his team is the way the two players handle themselves on and off the ice.

"I can sum up the two of them pretty easily," Baker said. "They have both been seeing a lot of ice time since freshman year when some people thought I might have been a little crazy giving freshmen a regular shift, but it certainly helped them. They are good kids. They keep out of trouble and they are both leaders on this team."

Wilkins in fact, is an assistant captain for the Rams and it is a role he takes pride in, making sure that he and his teammates are always ready to be at their best.

"I try to get the team pumped up and keep everyone's head in the game even if we are not doing well," Wilkins said. "It's basically keeping everyone's head on straight."

Wilkins and Rossetti who grew up just a couple of streets from each other in Wilmington and have known each other for most of their lives, were paired together on defense on a consistent basis last season. They have been separated onto separate lines this year, but do still pair up on the power play and it is the part of the game they enjoy most.

"We're good friends and I enjoy playing with him," Rossetti said. "I don't have him as my regular defensive partner any more and we would rather play together more, but it is great playing on the power play with him."

Wilkins concurred, adding, "It's great playing with Jesse. I feel like we move the puck real well when we are out there and we are able to set up opportunities for more offensive plays."

And both players feel like they will be playing with all of their teammates well into the post season once again this year. Advancing to the state championship game could be viewed as a once in a lifetime experience, but both Rossetti and Wilkins feel like they have a chance to do it again this season.

"We lost some good players off of last year's team, but I knew we had some talented young players like DiGiorgio and Sodergren coming back so I thought we would do well," Wilkins said. "I'm hoping to make it all the way again, and I feel like we have the talent to do it."

Rossetti is also looking forward to a strong post season from he Rams.

"It is going really good so far so I am very happy about that," Rossetti said. "And I think we can go far in the states. I really think we can do well and have a chance to go very far actually. We have a lot of talent on this team."

TMHS Girls Hoop player passed away Tuesday

Remembering Meghan McCarthy

This story written about Meghan McCarthy first appeared in the October 7, 2007 Town Crier Tewksbury edition. It is reprinted in its entirety to honor McCarthy, a member of the TMHS Girls Basketball team. McCarthy passed away late Tuesday night. On Sunday, the town of Tewksbury will celebrate the life of Meghan McCarthy and the Town Crier will have much more on that in next week's edition.

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Being 15 years old is never easy. Being a sophomore in high school can be difficult whether struggling with insecurities, bullies, bigger classrooms, making friends, joining an athletic team or just everyday life as a teenager.

For Meghan McCarthy, she has a double dosage of trying to deal with all of those common high school problems. Yet she's met those challenges head on and really doesn't let any of that stand in her way. A member of the JV Field Hockey team, who has two goals and an assist this season, McCarthy has strived in the classroom and on the athletic fields this fall season after going through brain surgery on June 6th as doctors found a cyst on top of a tumor located in her brain.

The incredible story, her courage and her ability to just try to be a "normal 15-year-old kid" is so extraordinary. But for her, McCarthy is compelled not to go into any details about it. Instead she just wants to hang her with her teammates, get ready to hand out a ribbon to senior Laura Gallan during Senior Day, and just go about her business like she did before June 6th.

"Just watching her (as a member of the JV team), she's obviously an awesome kid," said varsity field hockey coach Pat Ryser. "She plays really tough out there. She obviously wants to be out there and be a part of everything. I just think she's an inspiration to all of these girls just of what she does out there and how she's so driven. Nothing is going to change. She does a great job out there (on the field). She's a tough kid, a real tough kid."

The only thing that has changed on the athletic fields for Meghan since the news of her tumor, "is running."

"The problem is that she was sick all summer so she wasn't able to do any conditioning at all," said her mother Lee before Monday afternoon's varsity and junior varsity field hockey games against Lowell at home. "When she started, she still had the after affects of the radiation when practice first started. She didn't do any captains practices so she had no conditioning whatsoever. She lost 20 pounds and ended up losing a lot of her strength. It was a bonus during the preseason (that she didn't have to run a lot) but not the case when the season started (because she was behind)."

While Meghan lost the 20 pounds, she never lost her skills with the field hockey stick. She picked it up for the first time last year and seems like a natural. She's aggressive to the ball, has a real powerful swing and has scored two goals this season and assisted on another.

"Field Hockey is my favorite (sport)," answered Meghan, who is also a forward on the basketball team and a shot putter on the spring track team.

After going through brain surgery on June 6th where doctors reduced the fluid around the mass and a ICU for the next five days. Then on June 19th, doctors told Meghan that her tumor remained inoperable due to the location and the fact that it is fast growing and very aggressive. Thus Meghan went through radiation and chemotherapy, which began on June 28th and went for 42 straight days.

Yet despite all of that, she's in the classroom, she's hanging with her friends, she's hitting a field hockey ball down the left sideline of the field and she's congratulating her teammates after a goal, or a win. Yet she does all of this with a big smile - no complaints whether she's feeling great or not so great.

"I'll just go home and do homework," she said before her mother added, "She's definitely more tired lately because she's not in any treatment right now because her platelets are so

Girls start a mini winning streak

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Before the season started, Wilmington High School girls' basketball coach Jay Keane said he purposely added several very tough non-league games in hopes to get his team better for a stronger post season run.

After struggling out of the gate losing six of its first seven games, the Wildcats rebounded this past week winning both of their contests, a 60-40 win over Amesbury on Friday, and then a 56-40 win over Chelmsford on Sunday.

The two wins improves the team's overall record to 3-6, and there's a shot that if the team continues to pile up wins, it could slide into the playoffs. But Keane knows that certainly won't be an easy task.

"We're going to fight to get the ten wins that's for sure," he said. "We're playing good basketball right now. We're playing better, the girls confidence is growing and we're playing well together. It's going to be tough to get the ten wins, but if we continue to play better and continue to improve, I certainly believe we can do it."

This upcoming week will basically determine if the team has a shot at achieving that goal. Wilmington has three games this week, road trips to Lexington and Rockport on Thursday and Friday, and then coming home on Tuesday to face Manchester-Essex. Lexington has just two wins thus far, Rockport is winless, and Manchester-Essex is 4-7, but for some reason always gives Wilmington problems.

"The key for us is our defense," said Keane. "We held both teams (Amesbury and Chelmsford) to 40 points and that's been our goal all season long. I tell the girls if we hold teams to 40 points or less, we're going to win."

Sunday's non-league game with Chelmsford was a perfect indication of that. Wilmington jumped out to an incredible 16-1 lead, and then led 23-9 at halftime.

"Amanda (Keane) had her best game of the season," said the coach. "She covered their best player (Jenn) Janiak scoreless in the first half. We played very well defensively as a team, and that helped us build that big lead."

Keane ended up with a double-double finishing with 15 points and 10 rebounds and playing a superb all-around game. Two of her teammates also finished with double-doubles including Maggie Brown, who finished with 14 points and 11 rebounds, while senior captain Amy Fahey was terrific with 11 points, 11 rebounds, 7 assists and 4 steals, despite being ill.

"She was sick as a dog and she had a great game," said Keane. "I thought it was a good team win. We had seven different girls score, so it was good to see some balanced scoring."

Two days earlier, Wilmington knocked off league foe Amesbury, 60-40, at home. The Wildcats led 29-15 at halftime and the Indians did cut the lead down a bit in the third quarter, but the home town team pushed it back up after some timely baskets from Fahey, Meaghan Stinson and Emily Crannell, who all finished in double figures.

"It was another balanced attack for us," said Keane. "Stinson had her best game of the season and I think it was a career high of 13 points. She's been playing better and she's a pretty good ball handler which helps us out. And Emily finished with ten points and that was the second straight game she was in double figures so she's another one who has been playing much better."

After the three games this week, Wilmington will have eight games left on its schedule, six against opponents with a winning record as of today.

Boys edge out Littleton in tough non-league game

By JAMIE POTE

The Wilmington High School boys' basketball team extended its winning streak to four games this past week with victories over Amesbury, 61-49 on Friday, and a non-league road win against Littleton, 54-44, on Sunday afternoon. The two wins puts the team's overall record at 7-4, needing three more wins to make it to the state tournament for the 15th time in the past 16 years.

The win over Littleton wasn't easy as the Tigers came in with just one loss this season playing in the Central Mid-Wachusett League.

"They are a tough, solid team," said head coach Joe Maiella. "So I thought it was a good solid win for us. We played very well defensively and that was the difference."

Littleton is coached by Mike Lombard, who happens to be very good friends with Maiella, and who is Wilmington High School's all-time leading scorer in boys basketball history. The Hall of Famer graduated from WHS in 1988, and went on to have a great career at Dartmouth College, and has been coaching Littleton for the last few years.

"It was a lot of fun (facing Lombard)," said Maiella.

Boys game rescheduled after Meghan McCarthy passing

Late Tuesday evening, Tewksbury Memorial High School senior Meghan McCarthy, a three-sport athlete, passed away after battling an illness for the past three years.

Because of her passing, the Tewksbury-Wilmington Boys Basketball game scheduled for Wednesday (Jan. 20th) night at WHS has been moved as part of a varsity boys and girls doubleheader on Sunday. The doubleheader will be an afternoon event sponsored by the town of Tewksbury and the TMHS Athletic Department to celebrate and honor the life of Megan McCarthy, a member of this year's varsity girls' basketball team, as well as the field hockey and outdoor track teams.

The Tewksbury and Wilmington Boys Game will kick-off at 1:00 pm, followed by the Tewksbury-Concord-Carlisle girls game to start at 2:30 pm and all in the community are urged to come together and not only remember Meghan, but celebrate her life.

On page 2 of this section, the Town Crier has reprinted a story written about Meghan McCarthy in our October 7, 2007 edition. Meghan returned to play for the JV Field Hockey team just six months after a tumor in her brain was first diagnosed.

Wilmington took a four-point lead into the halftime break before slowly pulling away and coming through with the much needed victory. Three players finished in double figures for the Wildcats including Nick Godzyk with 18, Michael Murphy with 13 and Vin Scifo with 11, as the trio combined for 42 of the team's 54 points.

On Friday night, Scifo had the hot hand as he dropped in a very impressive 28 points in the team's road victory against Amesbury.

"We played a sloppy first half and then we played a great, great second half," said Maiella.

Wilmington trailed 23-19 at the break, before outscoring the Indians 42-26 in the second half led by Scifo's performance, while, Murphy added 16 points, as the two combined for 44 of the team's 61 points. Tim

McCarthy and Marty Bamberg also connected with three-pointers, while Scifo had four from beyond the arc.

Wilmington was supposed to play Tewksbury at home Wednesday night at this paper was being printed but the game was rescheduled for Sunday and will be played at 1:00 pm at TMHS. The game was moved as part of a doubleheader with the TMHS Girls team that plays at 2:30 as both Redmen teams will honor Meghan McCarthy, a senior member of the Girls team who passed away on Tuesday night after battling an illness.

The Redmen boys team are struggling with just two victories thus far this season, both coming before the New Year Holiday.

Besides that game, the schedule will get much tougher for the Wildcats, with six of its last opponents having winning records including Rockport (7-3) at home on Friday, Manchester-Essex (9-3) on the road Tuesday, before closing the regular season out facing Georgetown (7-3), Newburyport (4-7), Pentucket (5-4), North Andover (10-1), Masconomet (9-1) and Shawsheen Tech (2-10).

WHS Boys Track wrap-up

Relay team leads way for Wildcats at state relay meet

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Wilmington High boys indoor track team had some very good performances at the MSTCA Div III State Relays on Sunday afternoon at the Reggie Lewis Center. The Wildcats had two teams qualify for the McIntyre Elite Relays with sixth place finishes in the relay meet and also had some surprising performances as well.

The 4x200 squad of Nate Downs, Marc Shibilia, Rich

Barry and Caleb Rogers earned their sixth place finish with a time of 1:36.31, while the same foursome earned a sixth place finish in the 4x400 in a time of 3:36.72.

"The 200 was not their best time," Wilmington coach Bob Cripps said. "We had a difficult time with our hand-off between the second and third leg. Without that we could have finished as high as second which is where we were ranked going in. In a close race like that, there is no room for any error."

The 4x400 result was much more satisfying for Cripps and the Wildcats, with their time being their best of the season.

"They just ran a little quicker than usual," Cripps said. "I was happy with it. I told them I wanted them to qualify for the states with a time of 3:45 and they did much better than that, so I was very happy."

There were several other groups for the Wildcats, who while not qualifying for the McIntyre Relays, still had outstanding efforts on the day. The 4x800 team was probably the most impressive with the four-some of Joe Warren, Kevin Flaherty, Zach Sears and Tom Valente taking an eighth place finish in a time of 8:52.12.

"I had hoped they would qualify for the states with an 8:51, and they fell just short of that," Cripps said. "But they did very well and they have one more chance to qualify at the (Cape Ann League) meet. They just were not quite fast enough on this day."

The Wildcats distance medley team of freshmen Andrew Sears, Peter Warren, Erik Alatalo and junior Jeff Kannally exceeded all expectations with a 21st place finish in a time of 12:42.40.

"They did a good job, especially considering we had three freshmen running the race," Cripps said. "We had hoped for a time of about 13:02 and they beat that by 20 seconds so I had no complaints about that."

The 50-yard dash foursome of James Marra, Travis Valente, Lance Flaherty and Alex Leiskau managed only a 27th place finish, but the result only tells part of the story for a group that came together at almost the last minute and still exceeded expectations.

"We had a couple of kids who did not make the meet so we ended up with two shot putters (Leiskau and Flaherty) running it," Cripps said. "The original foursome was ranked 32nd, and this group with the two shot putters finished 27th."

Prior to the relay meet, the Wildcats squared off against Hamilton-Wenham on Wednesday afternoon and suffered a 49-37 loss, but Cripps was happy with his team's effort against such a quality opponent.

"I thought we did pretty well," Cripps said. "We had a couple of things that didn't go our way or we could have been even closer, but we did well and had some personal best which is always nice."

Two of the best running events on the day for the Wildcats were the 300 meters and the 600 meters. In the 300, Nate Downs took home first place in a time of 35.3 which was good for a person best, while Marc Shibilia took third in a time of 36.6, while in the 600 senior Caleb Rogers won with a personal best time of 1:20.3, beating his previous personal best by two full seconds, and Jeff Kannally took third in a time of 1:26.6.

"That was an amazing race," Cripps said. "Rogers needed that time because the Hamilton-Wenham kid was right behind him," Cripps said. "It was a great race all the way through."

The Wildcats swept the shot put event with Alex Leiskau leading the way with a throw of 39-5, followed by Lance Flaherty in 35-7 and Rory O'Rourke in 32-2.

Other top finishers for the Wildcats were Mike Barry with a second place finish in the dash in 6.07 while Mike Donnell took third in the hurdles in 7.73 and Zach Sears was second in the two mile at 10:29.2, a personal best time that qualified him for the state meet.

Joe Warren was third in the 1,000 in a time of 2:37, while Kevin Flaherty took third in the mile in 5:03, and Marc Shibilia took second in the high jump with a personal best leap of 5'9, followed by Nate Downs in third at 5'5.

The 4x400 relay team of Downs, Shibilia, Rich Barry and Rogers kept their undefeated season intact with a time of 3:53.3.

Lady 'Cats still trying to track down first win

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

The struggles have continued for the Wilmington High School indoor track-and-field team as the Wildcats fell to 0-7 on the season with a 70-16 loss to a very good Hamilton-Wenham team in a Cape Ann League meet held this past Wednesday.

The Wildcats have three league meets left, and will be looking to crack the win column starting with both Amesbury and North Reading in a tri-meet that was held on Wednesday night with results not known as of presstime, before finishing the regular season with a meet on January 30th against Triton. Both Amesbury and North Reading have one win this season and Triton is currently 3-4-1.

In the loss to HW, Catrina Fryer was the lone member of the team to come away with a first place finish doing so in the 55-meter dash coming in at 6.59 seconds. Maye Randell was second in the same event as she was clocked at 6.61 seconds, while Jess Burke was second in the hurdles (8.07) as was Nichole Lunt in the shot put with a personal best throw of 27-7.5.

The final two points came from Melanie Folk in the shot put (24-11) and Lori Fletcher in the 1,000 (3:10) as they both finished in third place in their respective events.

Other personal best performances were given by Amy Fisher (3:12) and Katelyn Richardson (3:34) in the 1,000 and Lexi Steenbruggen who finished the 300 at 44.6 seconds.

On Sunday the team participated in the Massachusetts State Track Association's Division 3 State Relay Meet held at the Reggie Lewis Center. None of the Wildcat teams placed within the top six in any event, thus the team didn't score any points. The best performance was given by the 4x50 relay team consisting of Fryer, Randell, Heather Kealos and Julie Braid, who had a combined time of 26.7 seconds which was good for 10th overall place.

WHS Wrestling

This past weekend, the Wildcats finished with 86 points, which was good for sixth overall place as a team during the annual Mount Anthony Union High School tournament held in Bennington, Vermont. Wilmington has been participating in the tournament ever since Mike Pimental became head coach as that's where he graduated high school from, and was crowned a Vermont State Champion during his senior season.

This annual tournament features all kinds of teams from Vermont, New York and Connecticut. Mount Anthony, the 23-time Vermont state champions, easily won the tournament by placing 13 wrestlers in the finals, with five coming away as champions. The Patriots finished with 276.50 points, followed by Shelton High School of Connecticut with 212.50, and then Averill Park High School of New York with 211.

"This weekend the kids wrestled great," said head coach Mike Pimental. "We ended up in sixth place, but were in the hunt for top three at one point. The competition was really tough this year. We are very proud of the team and again are hoping to continue growing towards the end of the season."

Wilmington had three place finishers including senior captain Tony Valente, who was third at the 171-pound division, while teammates, junior James Perry (152) and freshman Cody Halladay (130) both finished in fourth place.

"The three of them wrestled great," said Pimental. "Tony Valente lost a heart-breaker 2-1 to the champion from Mt. Anthony in the semi finals. James Perry lost a decision to the champion in the semi-finals. And Cody lost to the third place finisher earlier in the tournament. Cody was winning, but got caught."

"Most of our guys went 2-2 and came one match from placing."

Last Wednesday night

Wilmington was absolutely dominated by perennial league champion North Andover by a 59-8 score, which puts the Wildcats league record to 6-3 overall and 3-2 in the league. Shawn Adams and Perry were the lone two wrestlers from Wilmington to win, as Adams won an 11-5 decision over John O'Neil at 135 pounds, and Perry had a technical fall 19-1 victory over Guishard Laguerre at 152 pounds.

"The match against North Andover was a tough one but the score doesn't show how well the kids wrestled," said Pimental. "Many of the matches were dog fights in which we were just nudged out."

Wilmington faced Tewksbury in a non-league match on Wednesday night with results not known as of presstime. Then on Saturday, the Wildcats will face Pentucket, Wakefield and Haverhill in a quad meet held at Pentucket Regional High School, before coming home next Wednesday night to face Triton Regional beginning at 6:30.

WHS Boys Hockey

The Wildcats continued its perfect season with a 6-1 thumping over Triton Regional held Saturday night at the Governors' Academy Arena held in Byfield to improve to 11-0-0 on the season.

The Wildcats jumped out to a 3-0 lead after the first period on goals by Danny Cushing, Chuck Barbaro and Jeff Harris.

Cam Owens scored the team's next two goals, the first coming on assists from Patrick Boudreau and Tom Quilty in the second period, and then the second tally came 3:50 into the third period with helpers going to Ed Barrasso and Boudreau.

Boudreau scored the final goal of the game as he was set up by John Langanfeld. Jared Ravagni, Brian Hurley and Cushing had one assist each in goals coming from the first period.

Wilmington outshot Triton 42-15, as Zack Rosa played the entire game and turned away all but one shot to earn the victory.

The Wildcats return to action after a week off with a home game on Saturday afternoon against Pentucket beginning at 12:15 before its big league contest against Masconomet on the road Wednesday night at 8:30 pm. Currently Wilmington has an 8-0-0 league record and have five points in hand over Masco, which stand in at 5-2-1 against CAL foes.

WHS Girls Hockey

The Wildcats Girls Hockey team lost both of its games this past week, first losing to Medford, 3-1, last Thursday and then to Winthrop, 7-1, on Saturday. Head coach Joe McMahon was thrilled with the team's performance against Medford, but added that the contest against Winthrop is not one the team wants to remember.

"We played our best game of the season against Medford, especially the second and third periods," he said. "The girls really played terrific. And then against Winthrop, we were down 5-0 after the first period and could not recover after that. That certainly wasn't one of our best games this season."

In the game against Medford, Kara Kusa scored her first varsity goal which was unassisted. Then in the loss to Winthrop, Sara Alonardo scored in the second period with an assist going to Ryan Gautreau.

Wilmington will be back in action with just one game this week, on the road Saturday night against Burlington beginning at 8:10 pm. The Wildcats return home on Saturday the 30th to face Everett at 2:30 pm.

Boudreau continues to shine on the court

By DAN IGO
Sports Correspondent

The Westfield State women's basketball team hit a little bit of a snag as 2010 began, but thankfully Sarah Boudreau was there to help lead her team back on the right path.

Boudreau scored 12 points, grabbed seven rebounds and dished out four assists as Westfield State topped Salem State 73-68 on Saturday to stop a three-game losing streak.

Boudreau, a senior point guard from Tewksbury, was a perfect 5-for-5 from the field and 2-for-2 from the free throw line. She has started all 15 of her team's games this year, and is averaging 5.5 points per game.

The Owls improved to 7-8 with the win, 1-2 in conference play. They will travel to Framingham State on Saturday.

Wilmington's Ashley Vitale had a monster game for the Endicott women's basketball team on Saturday but it wasn't enough as the Gulls lost a 97-91 heartbreaker to WNEC in double overtime.

Vitale, a junior forward, scored 20 points and had nine rebounds in the loss. She also blocked two shots.

Both Endicott and WNEC came into the game undefeated in conference play. It was the highest scoring game in WNEC's history.

The Gulls fell to 8-5 overall and 2-1 in the conference after the setback. They next play host to Anna Maria College on Wednesday.

Evan White continued his impressive freshman campaign on the UMass Lowell track team as he won the 200 meter dash at the Tufts University Jumbo Invitational on Saturday.

The Tewksbury native ran a blistering 22.78 seconds to take first place. The River Hawks finished second overall behind the host Jumbos.

UMass Lowell will compete in the MIT Co-Ed Invitational next Saturday while several athletes will compete at the Greater Boston Track Club Invitational Sunday.

Two Tewksbury girls also represented UMass Lowell at the Jumbo Invitational and also did quite well themselves.

Senior Sarah Bonomo finished in fourth place in the mile with a time of 5:34.03. She also ran the third leg of the 4x800 meter relay team, which placed second overall. She ran a time of 2:36 in her leg.

Freshman Nicole Skotz also had an impressive day at the track. She finished in third place in the 1,000 meters with a time of 3:15.27.

Tewksbury's Kristin Judge was back in action for the University of Pennsylvania women's track team after nearly a month's break. The sophomore finished in eighth place in the high jump at the Penn State University Northeast Challenge on Saturday. She cleared the bar at 5-05 ft.

The Board of Directors of the Wilmington High School Athletic Hall of Fame has announced the selection of this year's inductees. There were eleven members selected for this prestigious award, which was last awarded in 2006.

In the Athlete Category:
Jeff Arceiro - 1998

Shawsheen Tech Sports Round-Up

Rams Boys Hockey team defeated by Marblehead

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Shawsheen Tech boys hockey team suffered just their second loss of the season on Monday afternoon, dropping a 5-2 decision to Marblehead at Hallenborg Pavilion. The Rams entered the third period in a 1-1 deadlock with their non-league opponents, but a four goal outburst by Marblehead in the final frame made for the rather lopsided final in a game where for probably the first time all year the Rams were dominated for parts of the game.

With the loss the Rams dropped to 7-2-1 overall on the season, while they still have a perfect record within the CAC at 5-0.

Shawsheen was outshot 33-18 for the game, including 15-7 in the first period when a motivated Marblehead squad, looking for revenge after losing to the Rams in last year's Division 3 North semi-final, came out firing on all cylinders.

"Marblehead controlled a lot of the play throughout the game and we did not play as well as we have shown we can play this season," Shawsheen coach Chuck Baker said. "We just did not generate enough shots and they are a sound defensive team."

It was actually the Rams who took the first lead of the game with sophomore period, the teams headed into the third period still deadlocked at 1-1 and Baker was thinking that his team might be able to escape with a win despite not having their best game.

"I felt like we might be able to steal a win if we were able to get an early goal and at that point with the way we were playing we would have been happy even getting a tie," Baker said. "With the way things were going if we were able to walk away with a win or tie with one solid period, it would have been great, but we were unable to do it."

Instead it was Marblehead who scored the first two goals of the period, taking a 3-1 lead. Senior defenseman Cody Wilkins of Wilmington brought the Rams within one goal with a tally at the 6:15 mark, but the momentum was short lived for the Rams as Marblehead responded with a goal just 17 seconds later to restore their two goal lead.

"We got back to 3-2 and really felt like we were flying at that point," Baker said. "But when they came right back and scored it really deflated us completely."

In the Rams prior game at home against Minuteman on Thursday he Rams skated to a 5-1 victory behind a pair of goals from DiGiorgio and single goals

ing revenge, as they will travel to Norwell to take on the team they eliminated in overtime in the Division 3 state semi-finals last season.

Wrestling

The Shawsheen wrestling team continued their remarkable season this past week, sweeping a quadrangular meet against Reading, Greater Lawrence and Burlington. The Rams downed Reading 55-13, Greater Lawrence 46-30 and Woburn on Wednesday and then a very tough quadrangler this weekend. He hates to lose and because of that he has a great work ethic."

Other three time winners for the Rams were sophomore Frank Murray of Tewksbury at 125 pounds, junior Anthony Finn (135), junior Ryan Cassidy (145), junior Jesse Dillon (160), senior Alex Najjar (189) and senior Andrew Companschi of Wilmington (215). Junior Anthony Pimentel picked up two wins at 171 pounds.

Pembroke, Wayland and King Philip are some of the top teams in the state so we will have to be ready."

In fact, the Rams and Donovan know they will have to be ready in every meet from this point on. With their new elite ranking in the state, Donovan knows that all future Rams opponents will be gunning for his team.

"We don't run from anybody," Donovan said. "We've got a bull's eye on our backs and everybody will be coming in looking to knock it off. But we just have to keep working hard the way we have been and do our best to continue what we have done so far."

Girls Basketball

The Shawsheen girls basketball team is in the midst of their toughest stretch of the season, having lost three games in a row to drop their record to 4-5 on the season.

The Lady Rams have been victimized as of late by some poor shooting which has led directly to their losses, particularly their last two defeats, last Friday in a 39-28 loss to Ursuline, followed by a 38-30 defeat to Assabet. Both non-league losses came on Shawsheen's home court.

"When we were 4-2 I told the girls we had three tough games coming up and we could conceivably win all three and be 7-2 or lose all three and be 4-5," Shawsheen coach Dick Barriss said. "Unfortunately things have not gone our way. The girls are trying, they are working hard, but we are just not shooting well enough."

That was certainly the case for the Lady Rams against Assabet as they shot just 11-for-54 for the game. The game was tied at the half, 21-21, but in the second Shawsheen's poor shooting started to catch up with them and Assabet was able to pull away for the win.

"When you shoot the way we did and then throw in the 15 or 20 turnovers we had, that is a lot of times that you are not making a basket," Barriss said. "Against Assabet, just like in the other games they hustle their tails off defensively and always do what I ask, but we just can't find consistent shooting."

Despite the loss to Assabet there were some bright spots for the Lady Rams, starting with center Samantha Killion of Tewksbury. Killion had four points, but more importantly she grabbed 14 rebounds to help Shawsheen's cause.

"Samantha is still a work in progress, but I have to say I have gotten everything I could have expected out of her this year and probably more," Barriss said. "She did not score a lot of points, but I will take the 14 rebounds any time."

Another positive sign for Shawsheen has been the continued strong play of sophomore point guard Kimberly Barriss. Barriss had 11 points and also did a good job running the Shawsheen offense. But as pleased as coach Barriss is to see Kimberly playing so well, having his point guard lead the team in scoring is not exactly what he had in mind.

"It is not by design that she is our leading scorer, because I would rather see some other players step up the scoring," coach Barriss said. "What we really need her for is her leadership and her ability to bring the ball up the court."

Allyson Trayah of Tewksbury added five points for Shawsheen in the losing effort.

Unlike the Assabet game where the Lady Rams were in the game up until the half, the Ursuline game was never really close as Shawsheen trailed 26-11 at the half and were never able to recover.

Taylor Marshall led the scoring for Shawsheen with seven points while Jess Houghton had five and Barriss had four.

While things have been tough for the Lady Rams as of late, all is certainly not lost. With a 4-5 record headed into Tuesday's night's game against CAC rival Greater Lowell and with another CAC matchup with Lynn Tech looming for Friday night, the Lady Rams will be looking get back on the winning track and get back over the .500 mark.

"I think they will be able to bounce back and they had better be because if not we could be looking at not qualifying for the states in a very long time," Barriss said. "Neither Greater Lowell or Lynn Tech are gimme games, but they re games we can win if we play well and shoot the ball better and we need to do that if we want to get back over .500."

Shawsheen Tech's Ryan Cassidy, shown earlier this season, has helped the Rams Wrestling team off to an undefeated start, while being ranked second in the entire state. (photo by JoeBrownphotos.com)

Joe Sodergren of Tewksbury lighting the lamp just 2:11 into the game on an assist from fellow sophomore Mike DiGiorgio of Tewksbury.

Marblehead controlled play for much of the rest of the period, but were kept off the scoreboard by goalie Ryan Maskell of Wilmington until the 13:21 mark when the score was tied and that is how the teams went to the break.

"We jumped on top of them which we felt we needed to do," Baker said. "But after that we just could not get an edge. There were times we played even and times they controlled play, but there was never a time where we controlled play."

After a scoreless second from Sodergren, Kyle LeBlanc, and sophomore Mike Walls of Tewksbury. The Rams out shot Minuteman 34-4 on the game, with goalie Jim Crowley picking up the win for Shawsheen.

"That was a good win for us, but I also felt that we did not play as well as we have played all year in that game either," Baker said. "Before these last two games I was very happy with where we were, but I feel like we have been mediocre in these games. We played kind of sloppy in the Minuteman game, so I hope we will snap out of it and play better."

On Wednesday night the Rams were set to square off against another team seek-

Burlington 45-23 to improve their dual meet record to 13-0 on the season and moved them up to the number two ranking in the entire state.

Several Rams swept all three matches on the day starting with freshman Devonn Pratt at 103 pounds. It would be hard to classify a wrestler of Pratt's pedigree as a complete surprise but to be making such great strides as just a freshman has made coach Mark Donovan take notice.

"He is the son of our assistant coach Doug Pratt, so he knows how to wrestle," Donovan said. "He also has a lot of experience coming from the Boys Club. He is relentless, just a real hard worker in practice. He

All of Finn's victories were by pin, while Cassidy also had three pins and Pimentel picked up a pin as part of his two victories.

With his team 13-0 and ranked second in the state, these are heady times for coach Mark Donovan and his Rams. But you won't find the 25th year coach with over 300 career wins counting the days 'til an undefeated season. He knows there is still work to be done, starting this weekend with a quad meet against King Philip, Wayland and 11th ranked Pembroke.

"I am very happy with where we are, but there is still a long way to go," Donovan said. "We have

Mystics pull away in fourth quarter to get a victory

Tewksbury Youth Girls Basketball January 16 Results Jr. League

Mystics 12, Starzz 8

The Mystics took a 3-1 lead thanks to the strong play down low from Alexandra Bourassa. In the second quarter, Marissa Doherty got two more points due to her great ball handling skills and her speed. Sam Alman is a real force down low as she made a nice turnaround jumper and nailed it for two. In the third quarter, Alyssa Mercurio stole the ball and went in for the nice jump shot from ten feet with two defenders on her, she banked it in for two points. Vicky Horton made a great pass and found a wide open Maggie Penta who sunk a 15-foot shot for two more. And Ali Bourassa finished the scoring.

Scoring for the Starzz were Emily Sessa (3 pts.) Isabelle Picher (2 pts.) Rachel Sessa (2 pts.) and Jordyn Cavicchi (1 pt.).

Sparks 21, Monarchs 7

Scoring for the Sparks were Caitlin Lane (6 pts.) Sarah Sullivan (4 pts.) Francesca Cocco (4 pts.) Rebekah Politis (4 pts.) Adrianna Favreau (2 pts.) and Emily Zuraski (1 pt.). The Monarchs were off to a slow start in the defensive end and spotted the Sparks twelve points in the first period before Emily Amaral drained two shots from the free throw line to put the Monarchs on the board.

Offensively they found many chances and Emily Amaral scored two points from the floor along with Tayla Spezzano. Kayla VonKahle added a point from the free throw line to finish the scoring for the Monarchs but the real story was Kayla's defensive play.

Kayla blocked a number of shots and was very tough on the boards with fellow forward Sidney Quinn which kept the Monarchs within striking distance throughout the game.

Liberty 27, Lynx 5

The Liberty played against the Lynx and walked away with the win. Liberty came together in a great effort with seven players scoring. Paige McGaffigan scored seven points, she had her best game of the season.

Also scoring was Shannon Vasas six, Sara Cantazano six, Niamh Cote two, Cassia Burns two, Lily Wyatt two, and Lisa Devito two points. Victoria Mirabito and Sara Cantazano were amazing on defense. Cantazano and Wyatt did great under the boards.

Gina Puccia and Jocelyn Stavros did a great job bringing up the ball and finding the open player. Stavros had several steals and Puccia helped apply the pressure. Devito was also great applying defensive pressure.

Scoring for the Lynx were Rebecca Lewis (2 pts) Sarah Larsen (2 pts) and Miranda Hulme (1 pt.).

Rockers 12, Mercury 12

Lizzie Markwarth and Erica Wynott headed the Rockers with six points each great job. Credit to Julia Kelly and Amy Glover, both with a great assist. Jackie Marchant and Sara Letourneau stepped up with a couple rebounds while Hannah Maffeo took on as a guard and did a great job.

Sara Constantino and Sara Bishop fought to stay open and Nicole Cobuccio and Tatem Pecci worked their magic with quick hands and quick feet on defense.

Lauren Riccardi scored the only shot for the Mercury in the first half of the game. Felicia Ragucci scored a little jump shot in the paint in the third quarter. The Mercury picked up the defensive pressure in the second half of the game with the help from: Teagan Trant, Julie Ozek and Sydney Papandrea.

The Mercury fought back from sixpoints down to tie the game in the fourth quarter. They found offense from Emily walker (2pts.) and Alexis Brincklow (4 pts.). Daniel Carrigg and Kiley Barrett were excellent on the boards during the game. Ashley Turri showed improvement dribbling the ball up the court and passing the her teammates.

Storm 14, Comets 2

The storm played an overall great game with key passing by Irene Houde, Stephanie Graffeo, Jessica Cacciola, and Stefani Cunningham. Kendyl Spinelli and Shaele Esteveo were stellar on the defensive end. Scoring for the Storm were Madison Wescott and Sydney Burlamchi with six-points each, and Nicole Lucia with two points. Bailey Carter was named Defensive Player of the game.

For the Comets, Caitlin Panessiti, Emily Burns, Olivia Powers and Michaela Svendsen (2) all played solid defense with many deflections and rebounds under the net. Carla and Michelle Tenaglia, Emily Lagone and Allison Couillard all made valiant attempts to push the ball up court and made many great attempts for the hoop.

Emily Milne and Julia Noone gave 100% effort with super hustle on the court during the game. The Comets got on the score board in the last quarter when Michaela Svendsen sunk one for two points. Defensive player of the game was Michaela Svendsen.

Intermediate Division

Cardinals 22,

Wildcats 20 (OT)

The Cardinals pulled out an exciting game on Saturday in overtime on a last second bucket by Eva Barinelli. Defense was the key to the victory in this game with many players contributing. Arianna Calouro receives the defensive player of the game with her tenacity and three steals (5 overall) in the second quarter alone.

Later on in overtime, Taylor Donahoe had a good try that did not fall. Then with four seconds to play with the Jayhawks inbounding the Cardinals stole the ball and passed to Eva. Eva streaked down the court and, exhibiting great patience, put the lay-up off the glass and in as time expired!

Leading rebounders for the Cardinals were Kayla Berube with 10, and Taylor Donahoe and Caitlin Carroll with four. Scoring were Eva with six, Ari, Nikki Doucette, and Kayla with four each, and Emily Vellozo and Caitlin with two each.

Lindsey Cossar sunk six points, Erica Dirk, Ally Kelly, and Colleen Kelly each put up four, and Janina Kennedy added another two and Erin Davis stepped up with several rebounds along with Lindsey, Erica, and Janina.

Defense was fierce with the speed of Corinne Doyle, Audrey Casey, Heather Doyle (before becoming injured), Ally Kelly, and Colleen Kelly.

Terriers 23, Falcons 8

The Falcons' Amanda Brown worked her magic in the key once again scoring nine points. Shannon Smith was able to put up eight points with lots of help from Amanda and Marissa Conlin who also scored two points. Ashley Colarusso and Michelle Creedon each scored two points both with breakaway lay-ups. The Terriers defense was spot on again.

The defense was led by Meredith Cahill and Meagan Timmins. Erin Walsh and Emily Duquette caused numerous turnovers and also helped keep the Falcons from scoring. Scoring for the Falcons were Jamie Burger, Brittney Fletcher, Elizabeth You, and Hillary Fletcher all with two points apiece.

Huskies 18, Cougars 13

The game started out fast and physical, both teams playing hard and short-handed. Kenzi Wyatt had one of her best games hitting three big jump shots. Stephanie Mchatton and Marina Russo played the top of the zone aggressively getting many steals.

In the second quarter Karalyn Gallela opened it up with some hard drives to the basket. Chloe Politis had eight rebounds and played great defense. In the third quarter in a close game Samantha Parker made a great steal and went the length of the court for a nice layup. Dimple Gandhi was all over the court in the fourth to seal the close victory.

High scorer for the Huskies was Karalyn Gallela eight and defensive player of the game was Samantha Parker.

The Cougars fell to the talented Huskies team in a close battle. Molly Harrington (2) and Samantha Teague (2) each played very well hitting some big hoops. Amanda Lane (2) was perfect from the free throw line. Caleigh Finnell had a big game grabbing several rebounds and scoring seven points. Mary Crowe and Jessica Lehman played well working hard at both ends of the court. Sarah Baptista was the defensive player of the game.

JayHawks 27, Waves 14

The Jayhawks utilized their skills setting picks with Samantha Powers and June Garcia stepping up to assist in Cassandra Froio driving in for a layup. Megan Braciska, Andrea Doran, and Ashley Colbert, played excellent defense in the third quarter not allowing the Waves to score, while Nicole Petherbridge and Loren Sullivan led the team in scoring to raise Jayhawks points up and take a strong lead.

Rebecca Keough (defensive player of the game) and Haley Pozzutto played tight defense in the fourth quarter, holding the Waves to limited shots.

The Waves played a great first half—tough comeback by the Jayhawks in the second half. Scoring for the Waves were Mariah Wentzell (6 pts) Kirsten Dick (4 pts.) Shalimar Hulme (2 pts.) and Tayla Legrande (2 pts.)

The Tewksbury 6B Girls Basketball team has enjoyed a fun season thus far. Last week the team played against Malden and Nikki Santora (24) and Melissa Markwarth (22) look to get into the action during the game. (courtesy photo).

Catherine Ozek was named defensive player of the game.

Sr. League

Jazz 36, Spurs 23

The Jazz got back to their winning ways with a solid win against the Spurs. The defense was lead by Abby Meuse, who patrolled the middle, while Jen Salvucci and Samatha Campbell grabbed numerous rebounds. Arianna Medeiros (17 pts) again lead the offense with some great acrobatic shots. Rachel Ragucci (6pts) scored some nice baskets on the inside. Haley Feingold (7 pts) and Haley Callahan (6 pts) rounded out the scoring for the Jazz.

The Spurs played another strong game despite ending up on the losing end of the score. They hustled and played very strong defense and held a talented Jazz team. A highlight of the game was Danielle Moulton who blocked a couple of shot attempts under the boards. Leanne Lozowski, Rachel Pendleton and Meaghan McLaughlin pressured the offensive attack with Erin Elliott and Jamie Cohen getting great position under the boards and pulling down many rebounds.

Scoring for the Spurs: Rachel Pendleton (11 pts), Meaghan McLaughlin (6), Jamie Cohen (2), and Erin Elliott (2).

Wizards 26, Pacers 24

The Wizards turned in a gritty performance playing without 4 players and were able to defeat a very talented Pacers team 26-24. Star center Missy Cordwell (2 pts) was forced from the game with an injury but Jen Iannacci picked up the slack scoring 14 pts in the paint against a very tall team. Sam Laferriere contributed 6 pts and kept the offense flowing with her ball handling skills.

Jen Maddaleni (2 pts) was also very active in the offense. Abby Donoghue (2 pts) continued her stellar defensive play and along with Jen Cobuccio turned up the heat on the Pacers allowing the Wizards to claw their way back. Jen Joyce and Sarah Barnes played major roles helping with rebounding and their overall hustle in a game where every possession mattered.

The Wizards also shined off the court with a very impressive showing in the league sponsored food drive.

Scoring for the Pacers were Laura Dooley and Haley Acconcia with 6 points apiece, Caitlin Morris and Mackenzie Pierce with four points each, and Anna Piccolo and Danielle Newhall with two points each.

Sonics 36, Raptors 32

The combined play between Melissa Peters (13 pts) and Shanna Chartientz (8 pts) in the second half gave the Sonics a 10-point lead going into the fourth quarter. Brittney Pachucki (5 pts) dropped three foul shots in the forth quarter to keep the Sonics ahead and in the end sealed the win. Marisa Harrington (4 pts) did a good job moving the ball up the court on offence and dropped two key baskets from the outside to keep the Raptors from gaining momentum.

Erin Morrissey (4 pts) played a strong defensive game and was able to make several key passes under the basket to help the team score. Christine Kang and Tess Wyatt (2pts.) were able to keep the pressure on the Raptors and controlled the boards on both sides of the court.

Scoring for the Raptors were Stephanie Champoux and Meredith Bonugli with 12 points each, and Ashley Pozzutto and Linda Ferreira with four points each.

Blazers 24, Magic 17

The Magic played a great game today. Kertrina Dustin played her best game of the season, playing great defense and scoring four points. Olivia Gallela (4 points) and Kelly Quigley (2 points) played great all around. Shanell Nardone (6 points) ran the offense and Nicole Hamel (6 points) pulled down some tough rebounds.

Ashlee Dell'Arciprete, Britney Dell'Arciprete, Kavita Shah, and Molly Tibbetts (2 points) all played well on defense. Kertrina Dustin was player of the game.

Scoring for the Blazers were Ashley Kelly (8 pts.) and Brooke Patterson, Bridget Casey, Mikayla Hodgdon, and Allyson Braciska with 2 points apiece.

Wilmington Recreational Basketball League Highlights

Wisconsin barely gets by a tough Purdue team

January 9th results

Big 10 - Boys Grade 3

Wisconsin 10, Purdue 6

Scoring 60% of the points for the Badgers was Alan Morris with 6 points. On the other side, the other 40% of the points were scored by Frankie Irizarry with 4 points.

As for Purdue, Stephen Anthony led the way with 4 points. The other basket was scored by Ayman Qaddoura.

Minnesota 26, Indiana 10

Minnesota had a very balanced attack on this Saturday. Six different players scored a basket! Leading the way for the Golden Gophers was Andrew Mangano with 8 points while Shane Ahlin and Peter Marino poured in 6 points apiece. Also dropping it like its hot was Nicholas Leighton and Eric Nesline each with 2 points.

On the other half of the court, Jason Marquard led the way for the Hoosiers with 4 points. Helping out young Jason was Michael Fothergill, Dillon McCarthy, and Michael Smolinsky each with 2 points.

Iowa 20, Penn State 16

Kyle Kenyon scored a Big 10 season high with 12 points, all in the first half. Helping out Kyle was Aaron Soto with 4 points while Riley McCue and Matthew Thomas each added in 2 points.

For Penn St., Joey Dumoulin led the way with 8 points. After Joey, the Nittany Lions had 4 players who each scored 2 points. Those 4 culprits were as follows: Nicholas Kullman, Jordan Hamel, Cameron Martin, and Jonathan Gonzalez.

Ohio St. 9, Michigan 4

Dropping it like it's hot for the Buckeyes was Jerry Brazile with 4 points. Helping out young Jerry was Nicholas Herlihy and Christopher Deschenes each with 2 points. The other point, and the only point scored on a free throw was scored by Christopher Stokes.

As for the Wolverines, Michigan was led by one scorer, as Joshua Crampton did all the damage by scoring 4 points.

Big East - Boys
Grades 4&5

St John's 12, Rutgers 12

Both teams played strong on both sides of the ball in this exciting overtime thriller. Even after an extra period, the score remained tied after both teams failed to find the net in overtime, resulting in a tie game at 12 all.

St John's was led by the duo of Alex Fanikos and Kyle Penney, who threw in 4 points apiece. Aditya Gautham contributed with 2 points, and Joshua Buske also sank a basket for his team. Jared Marquard and Frank Lake also played solid basketball on both ends of the floor throughout the game. Rutgers was led by Connor Griffin's sharpshooting, as he led his team with 6 points.

Edmond DeAngelis chipped in with 4 points, while Anthony Celata threw in 2 points for the Scarlet Knights. The Scarlet Knights also got help from Jack Boyle who showed tremendous hustle on both ends of the court, and Conor Kilbride, who grabbed several key rebounds.

Marquette 27,
Pittsburgh 14

The Marquette Golden Eagles offense proved to be too strong for the Pittsburgh Panthers defense. Marquette's Benjamin Maynard exploded for a terrific 15 points to lead his team in victory.

Helping him were Michael Daley, who threw in 6 points, and Michael Ducharme, who contributed 4 points. Scott Falzano also helped out, by throwing in 2 points of his own. Phillip Sheppard, Brendan Thorpe, and Matthew Abbott also had a solid showing for the victorious Golden Eagles.

Pittsburgh was led by their dual threat of Kyle Ritson and Tyler Roberts, who scored 6 points apiece. Tommy Worob rounded out the Panther scoring with a basket of his own. Harley Monteiro and Tucker Byrne also had a strong showing for their team on both ends of the court.

Notre Dame 26, U Conn 6

The dynamic Fighting Irish offense managed to evade the Husky defense throughout the game, and finished the day with a solid victory. Notre Dame had a total of seven players' score, while the entire team combined their efforts to grab the win.

The Irish were led by Andrew Almeida with 8 points, and Kyle Felisberto with 6 points. Ryan Maher threw in 4 points, while Zachary Marcinkowski, Matthew Blair, Brett Chisholm, and Jason Donahue each contributed 2 points apiece. UConn fought hard all game long.

Brendan Daly, Nithish Kalpat, and Matthew Kahlman each scored 2 points. Jarred Aucoin played solid defense, and Matthew Cook moved the ball around well for his team.

Syracuse 25, Cincinnati 16

Despite giving it their best effort, Cincinnati came up just short in their hard fought battle against a talented Syracuse team. Syracuse was led by Kevin Fothergill's 7 points, and Cameron Albert's 6 points. Joe McInerney shot well for the Orangemen, and finished with 4 points, while Joseph Rebeiro evaded defenders through the lane and finished with 4 points as well. Zachary Ahlin and Shane Adams also netted a basket apiece for the victorious Orangemen.

Sean Devlin, Scott Burke, and Christopher McGondel also played well for Syracuse. Cincinnati was led by Justin Trevisani with 6 points, and Cameron Saragosa with 4 points. Cristian Beltran, Chancellor Harper, and Rafael Veloso each contributed with 2 points.

Richard Ellen had a strong game under the boards for the Bearcats, and Jack Ponte moved the ball up the court well.

Louisville 15,
Georgetown 12

The offensive duo of Michael Stanford and Billy McEvoy were all Louisville needed to get their team going and seal the victory in this thriller with a scrappy Georgetown squad. Stanford scored 8 points, while Billy McEvoy scored the Cardinals remaining 7 points to seal the victory for Louisville. Matthew Spinos had great hustle for the Cardinals, and Jesse Valente played great defense in the win.

James Sheehan also played well for Louisville. Georgetown was led by Patrick Filetti and Devin Roberts, who scored 4 points each. Sean Hardy and Matthew Anthony each contributed with 2 points apiece to round out the Hoya scoring. Nicholas Skeirik also played a solid all around game for the Georgetown Hoyas.

Providence 26,
West Virginia 14

The balanced attack of the Providence Friars overpowered the strong West Virginia defense in this back and forth game, in which Providence ultimately pulled out ahead. Providence received a leading 6 points from Jack Sweeney, who also rebounded well for the Friars. Alex Fisher, Justin Eckstrom, Matthew Amentola, and Thomas Hogan each threw in 4 points for the Friars, who shot the ball nicely all game long. Joshua Bartnicki and David Stark rounded out their team's scoring by chipping in with 2 points each. Joseph Balliro also played well in his team's victory.

West Virginia received a substantial contribution from Jason Spizuoco, who sank 7 points for the Mountaineers. Christopher Grecco, Matthew Morrison, and Nicholas Haddad each threw in 2 points, while Connor Mackenzie sank a free throw to round out the scoring. Brian Dussault Jr., showed great hustle for the Mountaineers as well.

DePaul 24, Villanova 9

The DePaul Blue Demons

threw everything they had at the Villanova Wildcats, who could not answer their explosive offense. Jonathan Simmons continued his strong play by dishing some nice passes, intercepting some tough passes on defense, and shooting the ball well, to finish with 8 points. David Woods also shot well for the Blue Demons, and scored 8 points.

Jake Fulkerson, Ryan Aldrich, Christopher Souto, and Travis Hamilton each contributed with 2 points. Villanova was led by Camden Connor's 3 points, and the 2 point contributions of Andrew Pearson, Tyler Hamilton, and Alec Bonaccorsi. Jordan Briere also played well during Villanova's solid effort.

Conference USA -
Boys Grades 6&7Central Florida 18,
Houston 17

The leading scorer for Central Florida had the game of his life on Saturday. Ryan Kinsella scored a season high of 16 points with 10 of them coming in the second half. Dropping in the other basket was Riley Keogan.

Playing outstanding defense was John Irizarry, Eamon Kilbride, and Michael Gake. Houston on the other hand had a much more balanced scoring attack. Eric Berube led the way with only 8 points. Helping out Eric was Thomas Prior with 4 points and Shayne Trout with 3 points. Sean Piro also added in a basket. Tim Hill really dominated the boards.

Rice 19, Tulsa 17

On this Saturday, the Owls had five different players scoring. Liam Bennett led the way with 8 points while Matthew Leiskau and Nathan Vance each scored 4 points. Also joining the party were Jake Girardi with a basket and Bradford Aldrich with a free throw.

For Tulsa, Austin Ferreira led the way with 7 points while Daniel Valerio had 6 points. Also helping out Daniel and Austin was Tristan Hayes and Steve McInnis each with 2 points. Alex Hiltz, Tulsa's emotional leader, almost brought Tulsa all the way back for the victory, but fell just short.

Southern Miss 39,
Marshall 24

Of the nine dressed players for Southern Miss, 7 of them, yes, 7 of them scored. The high scorers of this club were Patrick Finn and Nicholas Cimaglia each with 9 points. Helping out those two was Michael Russo with 8 points and Ryan Adams with 5 points.

Also scoring was Michael Amato with 4 points, Samuel Messina and Andrew Hanlon each with 2 points. Leading the way for the Thundering Herd of Marshall was Zach Burke with 8 points and Andrew Vellucci with 7 points.

Also throwing in their two cents was Antonio Larfarello with 5 points and Brian Neal with 2 points. Michael Murphy also added in 2 points.

UAB 31, E. Carolina 30

Making his presence known was Patrick Dunfee with 2 points. As for E. Carolina, an undefeated season is now out of the realm of possibilities.

Leading the way for E. Carolina was Kurtis O'Byrne with 12 points. Helping out Kurtis was Kyle Callahan with 8 points and Liam Reynolds with 6 points. Michael Danciewicz and Andrew Lesperance each scored 2 points.

SMU 22, UTEP 2

Scoring for SMU came early and often. Doing more than half of SMU's damage was Zachary Leighton with 19 points. Helping out Zachary was Billy Dorion with 7 points; while Jon Roberts and Nicholas Trevisone each added 4 points. Scoring the final 2 points was Joseph Visalli.

UTEP's points were scored on free throws. Shawn

Reardon and Jacob Tague each hit a free throw. Even though they scored only 2 points, UTEP players gave it their all.

Memphis 31, Tulane 19

Taking over in this victory for Memphis was Kevin Goncalves. Kevin led the game with 12 points including hitting a three. Also splitting the load with Kevin was Marlon Felisberto with 8 points and Thomas Noffle with 4 points. Also getting their name on the stat sheet was Ian Palmer with 3 points and Kevin Richardson and Ben Rohleder with 2 points.

On the other side of the court, Michael Shedd led Tulane with 5 points. Billy Falder and Mark DeRosa also helped out by dropping in 4 points apiece. Lastly, there was a trio of 2-point scorers. Those three musketeers were Craig Venezia, Thomas Simmons, and George Hooper.

NBA - Boys Grades 8-10

Bulls 34, Wizards 15

The Bulls managed to spread their offense out as nearly every present player contributed to the winning score. Andrew Sutton led all scorers with 9 points. Matt Boutoures and Matt Chiricosta followed close behind with 7 and 6 points respectively.

Brian Goncalves, Arthur Papatathis, and Zachery Shepard all chipped in with 4 points apiece. Peter Warren had a solid game making many great passes for assists.

The Wizards were led by Zach Anderson, who finished with 7 points. David Cairra added another 5 and Michael Marinella threw in 2 more. Jacob Pumphret scored the final point on a free throw.

Hornets 43, Nets 28

The Hornets left their stingers in the Nets this week as Ran Cocca led the game with 17 points. Kevin Burke also finished in double digits as he threw in 10 points of his own. Ryan Kennedy finished with 6 and Will McNamara added 4 more. Kyle Reppucci, Wayne Barme, and Zack Tingdahl all chipped in with a basket each.

Tom Gorman led the Nets with 11 points, including a trey. EJ Boggia was next in line as he finished with 8 points. Ben Wilson and Matt Daley combined for another 7, scoring 4 and 3 points respectively. Craig Smith completed the scoring with a deuce.

Nuggets 55, Grizzlies 32

Three Nuggets finished in double figures as they led their team over the Grizzlies this week. Jimmy Welch led all scorers with an incredible 25-point display. He finished with six of his points coming from behind the arc. Brian Colton was next for the Nuggets, as he finished with 16 points. Michael Colton completed the trio's powerful effect with 12 points.

Zachary Curley had the final basket. David Arria was great from three-point range as he finished with three treys to lead the Grizzlies attack with 13 points. Troy Homola and Gino Lena each chipped in with 5 points and Mark Wadland added 4 more. Timothy Masiello and Michael Mann combined for the final points scoring 3 and 2 points respectively.

Cavaliers 53, Lakers 48

The Cavaliers came out victorious with Steven Colangelo leading all scorers with 23 points. John Rufo also finished in double digits as he threw in 12 points of his own. Andrew Morris added 9 more while Marcus Cole chipped in with 7. Troy Vibert, Vinny Poli, and Jared Walsh combined for the final 8 points scoring 4, 2 and 2.

The Lakers put up a hard-fought battle as the duo of Jamie Mara and Matthew Pickett led the way with 18 and 10 points respectively. Brandon Wong followed close behind with 8 and Steven Taylor added another 6. Tyler Peters finished with 4 and Patrick Barry had the final basket for the Lakers.

Heat 36, Knicks 24

The Heat continued to be on fire as they once again walked away with a big win.

The duo of Cody Crampton and Matthew Costello lit it up with 15 and 14 points respectively to secure the Heat victory. Zachary MacNeill had a good day as he finished with 7 points of his own and Colin Chase had an additional 2.

The Knicks fought hard until the final buzzer with Brian Priem leading the way with 8 points. Jack Campbell was next in line with 5 and Kyle Skinner added 4. Connor Burke, Dylan Walsh, and Zack Patz completed the scoring with 3, 2, and 2 points apiece.

Atlantic Coast
Girls Grades 5&6

Duke 21, Virginia Tech 7
Erin Miasserian had 10 points as Duke won over Virginia Tech Saturday. Shooting a very high percentage from her forward position, Marci Zaccardi scored 8 points. Helena Walker had multiple steals, which she converted into 8 points, and Mary Lesperance added 2 points to Duke's total. Elisabeth Olson and Lily Keating played solid all around games on both ends of the floor.

Virginia Tech's scoring attack was led by Erin Filetti (2 points), Ruju Trivedi (2 points) and Cayman Hardy (2 points). Rachel Gullotto and Brianna O'Donoghue worked hard on the defensive end to prevent Duke from penetrating. Sonia Purohit played well on defense and made a nice free throw after being fouled.

Virginia 36,
Wake Forest 22

Samantha DeMonico scored a game high 18 points to help lift Virginia over Wake Forest Saturday. Marisa Butler added 12 points and Shannon Mota, scoring from both the inside and outside, had 8 points. Makayla Martinez (2 points), Samantha Colombo (2 points) and Katie Colombo (2 points) all played well the entire game.

Christina Natola had 8 points and Julia Gaffey had 6 points to lead the scoring for Wake Forest. Allison Wadland (4 points) and Katelyn Musto (4 points) scored and passed extremely well during their minutes on the floor. Nicole Barry and Sofia Puccio did a great job defending in the low post. Samantha Rideout and Chloe LeBlanc made Virginia's guards work extremely hard with their defense.

Georgia Tech 28,
Clemson 15

Erica Pudvelis scored 10 points and Hailey Liston had 8 points as Georgia Tech won over Clemson Saturday. Jamie Shanning scored 4 points, Nicole Mallinson had 2 points and Jade Sanzone had 2 points in solid offensive performances. Crisp, accurate passing by Siobhan Reidy (2 points) and Emily Rakers allowed easy baskets for teammates.

The defensive intensity of Sophie Consorti was rewarded with many Clemson turnovers.

Kristin Brown led Clemson's efforts with 7 points, including an NBA range 3-point shot. Amanda Boyle and Liz Freitas each made a great shot on offense and both ended with 2 points. Arianna Scoppettuolo and Erin Riel's defense on the perimeter made it difficult for Georgia Tech to get to the basket.

Excellent rebounding on the defensive boards by Katelyn Fisher (4 points) and Morgan Walsh limited Wake Forest's second shots to a minimum.

Miami 30, Maryland 24

Miami's Julia Gake (10 points) and Montana Howlett (8 points) took over in the final minutes of the game to edge a strong Maryland team Saturday. Courtney Murphy had 4 points, and Emily Loud (2 points) scored a nice basket after an offensive rebound.

Kyra Walsh (2 points), Tayla O'Neal (2 points) and Emily O'Keefe (2 points) played tight defense all over the floor. Samantha Pizzi made some nice defensive stops and rebounded well.

A strong offensive outing for Katelyn Stevens (10 points) helped keep Maryland in the game until the end. Excellent shooting by Isabella Cigna (6 points), Meghan Rodenhiser (4 points) and Melody Almeida (2 points) added to Maryland's point total. Holly Doyle and Kayla Martin's hustle on the defensive end of the floor stood out. Samantha MacInnis (2 points) rebounded well and made excellent outlet passes

North Carolina 18,
Florida St. 12

Teresa Gracia led all scorers with 6 points, and Sarah Klucznik and Jessica Backman had 4 points each as the trio lifted North Carolina over Florida St. this week. North Carolina also received offensive production from Melissa McNamara (2 points) and Allison Daniluk (2 points) on some nice outside shots. Kayla Koster's defensive efforts were exemplary.

Olivia Hill (4 points) led Florida St.'s offense. Playing without point guard Samantha Martignetti, Arianna Schuurman (2 points), Christina Spinos (2 points) and Liza Lake (2 points) picked up their offensive game and gave their full effort on defense. Tori Bruce (2 points) also submitted an excellent defensive performance.

Liberty 38, Sparks 16

The Liberty picked up where they left off last week and kept their offense rolling. They outscored their opponent 38-16 this week as Cassandra Grasso continued to lead the attack with 12 points. Sarah Cokash followed close behind with 10 points of her own.

Casey Murray and Caroline Newhouse each chipped in with 5 while Michelle Murray added 4 more. Lauren Mulligan rounded out the scoring with a deuce. The Sparks' Taylor Howlett finished with 6 points and Jessica Hogan had 4. Julie Welch, Aida Domenech, and Janelle Heenan all had 2 points on the day.

Mystics 34, Storm 26
Hannah Reynolds lit it up for the Mystics as she threw in a day-high 20 points. Nicole McInney and Kristen Luise combined for 10 more of the Mystics points scoring 6 and 4 points respectively. Brittany Abbot finished the day with 3 points of her own and Meghan Sullivan scored the final point.

The Storm threw everything they had at the Mystics, but they came up just short in the final minutes. Amanda Richards led her team with 15 points. Kayla Falter and Sara Ennis both finished the day with 4 points. Nicole Potcner and Lauren Natale chipped in with a basket apiece.

Comets 30, Mercury 8
Rachael Mara once again led the Comets in their offensive attack as she threw in 16 points this week. Hannah Brown finished second in line with 6 of her own. Four Comets had 2 points including Elizabeth Dullea, Samantha McInnis, Michaela Ouellette, and Erin Duffy. The Mercury put up a tremendous fight as all of the girls played an excellent game.

Shannon Moulton, Kaitlin Curley, and Emily Bamberg all contributed a basket. Caroline Albanese and Jacqueline Cote both finished with a point.

The St. Patrick's Senior Girls basketball team recently won the Tiger Hoop Classic basketball tournament held at Pope John High school in Everett on January 3rd. The Squad went undefeated in the tournament besting a strong Kipp Academy team from Lynn in the final game for the championship.

K of C Free Throw contest, Jan. 28

The Wilmington Knights of Columbus, with the cooperation of the Wilmington Recreation Department and the Wilmington High School Athletic department, is holding its annual K of C Free Throw Contest for boys and girls in the 10-11-12-13-14 age groups. Groupings are based on your age as of January 1, 2010.

There will be separate contests for boys and girls in each age group. Trophies will be awarded to the winners in each category and those winners may advance to District, Regional, and State shoot-outs.

Place: Wilmington High School Gym

Date: Thursday January 28, 2010

Time: Registration begins at 6:45PM

Shoot-out will begin about 7:15PM

(shooters will not be allowed to check-in after 7:30. We expect to finish by approximately 8:30)

We strongly urge parents and coaches to encourage their kids to come on down and give it a shot. It is an opportunity for the kids to perform in a competitive environment. Over the past 30+ years, many Wilmington shooters have had success at the District, Regional and State level. In fact, we have had several shooters from Wilmington excel as State Champions.

Come on down and have some fun!

Wilmington's Ravagni writes a medical, mystery adventure

Hockey Mom turned author

Susan Ravagni

By PAUL FEELY

A new mystery novel has started to pop up in independent bookstores around the area, written by a first-time author from Wilmington, a hockey mom who decided to take off the gloves to free up her fingers to do some typing.

Wilmington resident Susan Ravagni has self-published her first book, the medical mystery adventure "I'm Just a Girl," through Dog Ear Publishing.

Ravagni, a 48-year-old wife and mother of two, has placed her book at numerous independent booksellers in the North Shore area, including Andover Bookstore and The Book Rack in Newburyport as well as online retail giant Amazon.com.

"It was a long process," said Ravagni, who grew up in Michigan but whose husband, George, is a lifelong Wilmington resident. "I think I got the idea for the book about three years ago, and then it took about two years to write it."

"I'm Just a Girl" follows the trail of Amanda Buscemi, a medical technologist and mother of two who learns that the seemingly accidental death of a Boston College hockey player may not have been an accident after all. As Buscemi and her best friend, Milagros, follow the trail of clues, they uncover a murder plot that draws them into a sinister web - and a hilarious, outlandish adventure.

"I wanted to make it funny and interesting," said Ravagni, a hockey mom whose son Jared Ravagni is the starting center for the Wilmington High School varsity boys hockey team. "I wanted to make it a thinking woman's book. I don't think anyone has a book quite like mine. It's a medical mystery, but there are funny moments. Life can have comical moments, so I felt that was a critical element to my book."

Many of the details of Buscemi's life parallel Ravagni's own - they're both medical technologists with two sons, one of whom is a hockey fanatic.

"When I wrote it, I almost thought of her as my alter ego," Ravagni said. "I took to heart the saying that you write what you know about."

So how does a wife and mother with a background in laboratory science become a novelist?

Ravagni first discovered her flair for writing through her current position as a technical consultant with Biosite, a company that develops and markets diagnostic products for laboratory medicine.

"I started writing funny poems to end our regional meetings, and that's when I realized I had a creative bent when it comes to putting a story out there and amusing people," Ravagni said. "I guess it fed the monster, so to speak."

Ravagni's frequent travels as part of her position with Biosite offered the perfect opportunity to begin writing her book; with the idea for Buscemi's character percolating in her mind, Ravagni began penning the novel during down time at hotels and on planes.

Less than a year later, the book was complete.

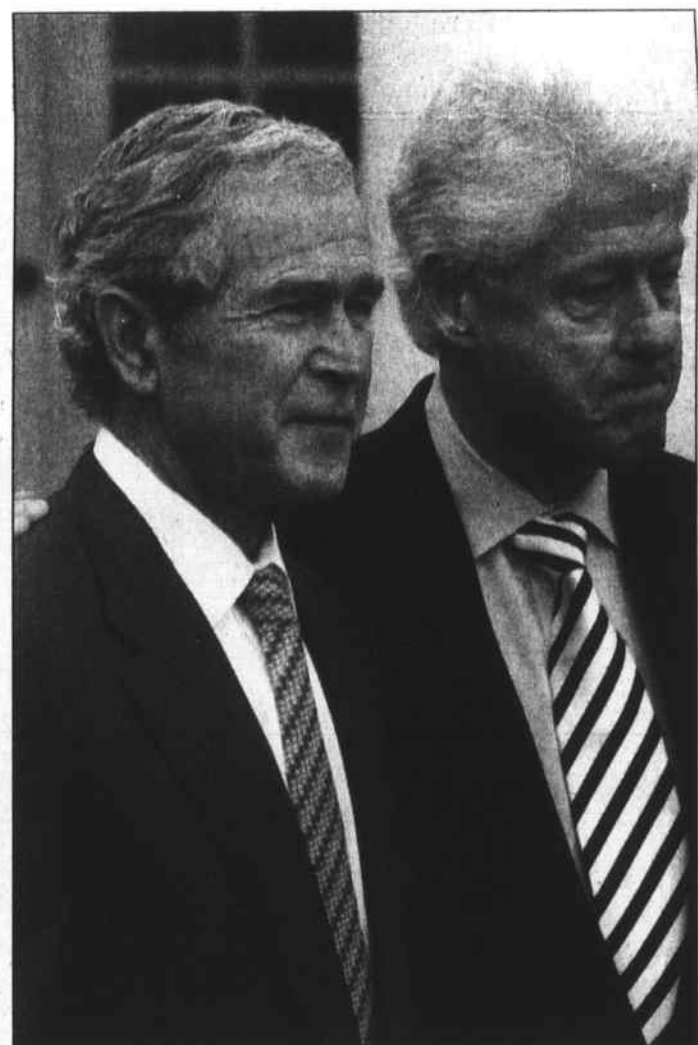

"I initially did it just for my own amusement," Ravagni said. "It wasn't like I sat there and thought of an audience; I was really just writing it down to express myself. It was only when I had co-workers read it and they got excited that I started to think about the book in broader strokes, and not just as a creative outlet."

"I had a lot of time to think about the details on my long car trips all throughout New England and upstate New York," said Ravagni. "I basically worked out everything regarding the story in my head while I was driving, making notes while stopping here and there, and then put it together."

Ravagni also had a ready-made network of experts to consult with to ensure she was getting the medical details in her book right.

"I would use my network of contacts, if I needed them, when I had a question about this or that," said Ravagni.

After completing her book, Ravagni spent hours each weekend researching and submitting to literary agents. After 70 submissions without a single bite, Ravagni decided to take matters into her own hands and go the self-publishing route.

"The Book of Eli" Mysteries scattered throughout

ELI (DENZEL WASHINGTON) HAS BEEN ON A JOURNEY FOR 30 YEARS, walking west across America after a cataclysmic war that turned the earth into a total wasteland. The world has become a lawless civilization where people must kill or be killed.

"THE BOOK OF ELI"
GRADE: **

There have been a lot of post-apocalyptic visions playing out on the big screen as of late, but 'The Book of Eli' is one of the better ones.

"Eli" is the vision of filmmakers and brothers Allen and Albert Hughes, and they have a definite path they want to take to tell their tale, and they stick to it - just like their hero, played by Denzel Washington.

The film takes place in a bleached-out world, where a sad-eyed loner (Washington) struggles to avoid being killed by other survivors who now populate the scorched Earth. It's the near future, after both a war and an environmental disaster, and this man, whose Kmart name tag identifies him as Eli, is willing to do whatever it takes to protect a secret book.

'Eli' plays out like a hybrid of two popular genres - the science-fiction fantasy and the western. Eli ventures into a lawless wild west-like town presided over by a saloon owner named Carnegie, a lip-smacking maniac played by Gary Oldman.

Viewers will hate Carnegie on sight because he is mean, makes others do his dirty work and is identified as the film's villain once he learns that Eli has the book he wants.

Mysteries are scattered throughout "Book of Eli", such who is Eli and why is the book so important, and unlike some other similar films, in this one all of those questions are answered in the big, explosive ending.

There are several really good action sequences, such as a shootout at a farmhouse, where one scene is shot from the perspective of a bullet shot from a gun outside the house. Another highlight is a stylized silhouette battle sequence that looks like a graphic novel when it suddenly shifts from color to black-and-white.

"LEAP YEAR"
GRADE: **

An actual leap year may come round only once every four years, but the type of movie 'Leap Year' is, and the formula it follows, seems to come along at least once every few months. While there's nothing really wrong with this movie, there's nothing all that original about it either.

'Leap Year' is a romantic comedy about a woman who, tired of waiting for her boyfriend to propose marriage, decides to fly to Dublin and surprise him by popping the question herself.

Amy Adams' considerable charm and seemingly endless amounts of energy carry the film, but there's only so much one character can do in a love story. As the old saying goes, it takes two to tango, and unfortunately her onscreen partner here, Matthew Goode, doesn't offer up the same type of energy in his performance.

The film, set in a beautifully photographed Ireland, is about as formulaic a love story as there ever has been. The whole story could have been told just as well in a half-hour television show as a full length movie.

Adams character, a woman consumed with her career and busy lifestyle, is sick of waiting for her long-time boyfriend to ask her to marry him. She seizes on the Irish tradition of Leap Day, when women are allowed to propose to men, and heads overseas to do just that.

After a series of very contrived travel mishaps, she makes her way to Declan's (played by Goode) small pub in the village of Dingle, where the laid-back bar owner becomes her only transportation option, and soon their trip to Dublin (and love) begins, hitting every romantic cliché along the way with such precision that they must have been guided by a GPS.

The movie takes no chances with these two, and their romantic affair concludes with an ending that will surprise no one.

If not for Adams, this movie wouldn't be worth spending the lint in your pot'o'gold on. Thanks to her perky charm, instead it is a pleasant, if forgettable, romance.

"UP IN THE AIR"
GRADE: ****

Ever since this film debuted in festivals in September, the dramatic comedy "Up in the Air" was declared by most as a top Oscar contender.

Now, finally in wide release, audiences everywhere can enjoy director Jason Reitman's latest charmer, a sophisticated and smart comedy tailor-made for adults, easily one of the most enjoyable films of the year.

Based on a script Reitman co-wrote with Sheldon Turner, which itself is based on a novel by Walter Kirn, the film focuses in on George Clooney, playing a frequent-flying corporate ax man named Ryan Bingham. A man defined by his work, he spends his life flying around the country and firing people for bosses who can't do it themselves. It's not a job for everyone, but it's a perfect fit for Bingham, and lucrative, too, especially during the current recession.

"It's one of the worst times on record for America," says Bingham's boss, played by Jason Bateman. "This is our moment."

Besides, Bingham - whose life goal is to log 10 million frequent-flyer miles - has convinced himself that life on the road is the best life. He tells himself it's because of the efficiency and order it offers: the hard-and-fast airport rules, the nice-and-neat hotel rooms, the luxury of keeping the rest of the world, and the messy problems relationships can bring, 30,000 feet below you.

In reality, though, it's because human relation-

LECTURE SERIES IN WAKEFIELD

The Sweetser Lecture Series of Wakefield will offer three programs this spring.

The season kicks off with Northeastern University historian William Fowler, PhD speaking on "An American Crisis: George Washington's Newburgh Address." He is scheduled for Tuesday, March 16.

Appearing second will be Liz Walker, former WBZ TV news anchor. The minister, humanitarian, and journalist will speak on Wednesday, April 11 on "The Risk of Love: Crossing Cultural and Religious Boundaries."

Rounding out the series is Jack Levine, criminologist, author and Northeastern University professor of sociology and criminology. His topic, on May 20, is "Murder, Mayhem, and the Media."

All three lectures will be held in the Wakefield-Lynnfield United Methodist Church, 273 Vernon Street, Wakefield, beginning at 7:30 p.m. The church is handicapped accessible.

Tickets cost $10 each, or $25 for the series. They are available at Smith's Drug Store, 390 Main Street, The Medicine Store, 409 Lowell Street, Silver Clay Jewelry, 391 Main Street or by mail from the Sweetser Lecture Committee, P.O. Box 1734, Wakefield, Ma. 01880

LIVE EEL TANK DEBUTS AT PARKER

The Parker River National Wildlife Refuge is now displaying a live eel tank as part of its exhibits. This tank is located in the Visitor Center, 6 Plum Island Turnpike in Newburyport and is viewable while the visitor center is open from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The American Eel is a slimy, fascinating fish that lives an interesting life cycle. These eels begin their life thousands of miles away in the Saragasso Sea, which is in the North Atlantic between the West Indies and the Azores.

After hatching, the eel eggs float to the ocean surface and hatch into small, transparent larvae shaped like willow leaves. These larvae drift with the Gulf Stream and other currents, taking about a year to reach the Atlantic coast.

These carnivorous creatures feed on fish, fish eggs, crabs, worms, clams, as well as dead animals. They can absorb oxygen through their gills as well as their skin. This gives them ability to travel short distances on land.

Movies From S-2

ships are tougher to handle than the occasional cancelled flight or extended layover. Rather than create connections with other people, he prefers the pleasures airline workers reserve for their best customers.

Clooney oozes a boyish charm and rascalish streak, until, out of the blue, comes a double-whammy. First he develops feelings for a free-spirited fellow traveler named Alex (newcomer Vera Farmiga). That's followed by a wake-up call at his company, with the arrival of a young upstart named Natalie Keener (Anna Kendrick), who is as smart as she is sarcastic.

While Clooney was busy flying around with Alex, it seems Natalie convinced their boss that the company could save money by grounding all of its "terminators" and having them fire people via teleconference instead. Before the firm buys into the plan, however, Natalie is ordered out onto the road to see exactly what the job requires.

When the Golden Globe nominations were announced, "Up in the Air" led all movies, earning six. Look for more come Oscar time.

Woburn's NUPATH has new path- The City Council recently decided that locally-based non-profit NUPATH, Inc. could proceed with egress work on an Arlington Road home for disabled residents.

"According to attorney Joseph Tarby, representing the New Boston Street charity, his clients recently purchased a non-conforming three-family dwelling at 14 Arlington Road, where the organization intends to provide housing for four physically disabled persons," notes the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Because the house is a pre-existing, non-conforming structure, the home could technically be occupied as a three-family in most circumstances."

"However, based on Mass. Dept. of Developmental Services requirements, the non-profit needs to add another means of egress, which requires council approval — based upon Building Commissioner Stephen Paris's interpretation of the city's zoning regulations."

"If I had purchased the property, I could rent out that third floor," Tarby explained. "But because of the requirements of Massachusetts, it requires a second means of egress on the third floor."

"According to Tarby, Paris was specifically asking for the council to find that the alterations to the building will not be more detrimental to the neighborhood."

"In particular, NUPATH plans to add a door on the third floor and tie a newly-constructed set of stairs to the existing deck and fire escape on the floor below the unit."

"We're not changing the use of the property. The building's not being expanded. We're simply adding stairs to the landing," said Tarby, arguing that the work was a minor alteration that would not have any major aesthetic impacts....

Reading's 'smart growth' on the horizon- Reading Town Meeting Members overwhelmingly passed the proposed downtown 40R 'Smart Growth' district at a special session considered the following factors while weighing the pros and cons of the district," notes the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Town Meeting members

"The goals of the 2005 Master Plan are to increase affordable housing, allow for mixed-use zoning & downtown revitalization."

"The 2006 Comprehensive Housing Plan calls for more housing diversity & affordable housing in the downtown."

"A more active downtown and business friendly Town Center was a major theme from the 2008 World Café."

"Current zoning does not allow for mixed use or residential in the downtown by right."

"...Board of Selectmen Chairman Ben Tafuya, a strong proponent of the district, offered the following statement."

"By listening to questions and comments from constituents, no goal for town action is clearer than the need for continued revitalization of the downtown," said Tafuya. "We took a big step earlier this year with the completion of the streetscape project and the incredibly successful Fall Street Faire. These events showed the confidence we have in our ultimate success at building a civic hub worthy of the spirit of Reading...."

Winchester's ANOVA comes to mind - "It has been reported that Massachusetts is 48th out of all 50 states in supporting education for gifted and talented students," notes the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"To help remedy the lack of opportunity for gifted children to reach their full potential, a plan is underway to form a non-profit parent cooperative school called ANOVA. The plan is to open it, with one or two rooms, next fall."

About the Towns by Phyllis Nissen

GROWING PAINS? NOT AT ALL

"We will assure an appropriate education for high ability students and enable them to realize academic achievement gains and social and emotional growth that is higher than like ability peers who are not part of a specialized program."

"Long term, we intend to become a model for effective education which instigates the launch of other programs for high ability students and inspires innovative new practices in general education. We believe that it is possible that our use of flexible ability grouping across multiple ages, a focus on education based upon ability and not age, and integrated technology will serve as an inspiration and teacher training center for other programs...."

MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA:

Who was the last NHL player to score 50 goals in his team's first 50 games? Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

Adam Ross (Red Deer, AB) scored for Merrimack but the 11th-ranked Ferris State Bulldogs defeated the Warriors 5-1 at the consolation game of the 21st and final Badger Hockey Showdown at the Kohl Center. Merrimack (7-10-0, 4-6-0 HEA) returns to Hockey East action for the remainder of the regular season beginning Saturday night at 7 p.m. at the University of Maine in Orono.

The Bulldogs, who lost 6-1 to Yale Saturday night which snapped a 10-game unbeaten streak, came out strong, outshooting Merrimack 16-7 in the first while taking a 2-0 first period lead on a goal from Casey Haines and a goal and an assist from Blair Riley.

Ferris State picked up right where it left off in the second as Aaron Schmit notched his first collegiate goal 2:35 into the period to increase the lead to three goals.

Ross got the Warriors on the board with his first of the season at 7:34 of the second. The junior assistant captain wristed a shot past goaltender Pat Nagle, taking a drop pass from Pat Kimball (Framingham, MA), executing a three-on-two for the tally, Ross' fourth career goal.

Chris Barton (Calgary, AB) started the third period with an excellent scoring chance but his shot from just inside the circle was stopped with the stick by a sprawling Nagle. Any momentum the Warriors hoped to use from that was squashed as they took two minor penalties in the first 6:29 of the third with the latter resulting in a power-play goal from Justin Menke and a three-goal lead for the Bulldogs. Zach Redmond added a late man-advantage marker, giving Ferris State the 5-1 victory.

In the game, Merrimack committed seven minor penalties, killing off five of the seven Bulldog man-advantages. The Warriors were 0-for-3 on the power play.

Making his second start in as many days for the first time this season, JOE CANNATA (WAKEFIELD, MA) posted 26 saves, including 14 in the first period.

Nagle stopped 23 shots in net for Ferris State, improving to 5-2-1 on the season. Twelve different Bulldogs recorded a point, with Riley and Haines earning multiple points.

The game marked the second-ever meeting between the two teams and the first since Merrimack and Ferris State became Division I programs.

JACQUI BARRETT, A SENIOR FROM WOBURN, was named the Northeast-10 Conference Women's Field Athlete of the Week Tuesday and led two teammates to similar honors following a stellar showing at the Dartmouth Relays Sunday.

Craig Bennett (Milton, MA) and Sharon Cunningham (Foxboro, MA) were named the men's and women's freshmen athletes of the week while several River Hawk athletes were cited to the NE-10 Weekly Honor Roll.

Barrett, who earned the honor for the second time in three weeks, placed second overall and tops among collegiate throwers in the shot put with a career-best distance of 45 feet, 11.25 inches. Barrett's throw marked the second time she eclipsed her personal best this season and put her fourth on the NCAA Championship qualifying list.

Bennett placed second overall - first among collegiate runners - in the 400 meters as he registered a time of 50.06 seconds, just behind independent runner Jonathon Hall (49.95).

Cunningham ran splits in two relays, including a 59.4-second leg in the 4X400 meters which UMass Lowell won in 4:00.54. She also ran a 25.9-second leg on UMass Lowell's 4X200 meter relay team which placed second (behind Northeastern) in 1:45.62.

Three River Hawks were named to the Weekly Honor Roll, led by junior Cory Murray (Methuen, MA), who placed fifth in the shot put (first among Division II-III throwers) with a distance of 52' 4.75". The throw also catapulted Murray to 12th on the NCAA Championship qualifying list.

Junior Angus MacDonald (Methuen, MA) placed fourth (first) in the 3,000 meters with a time of 8:34.39 while senior Haley Catarius (Marshfield, MA) ran a 59.1-second leg on the women's 4X400 team and also placed eighth (second) in the 800 meters in 2:17.88.

"Need some help with this week's question? He's got the blues.

The Bowdoin College women's ice hockey team bounced back in the second game of a two-game set against Sacred Heart on Sunday, 5-2, at Sidney J. Watson Arena. The Polar Bears improve to 5-5-2 this season while the Pioneers drop to 5-11-1.

Bowdoin got things going when DOMINIQUE LOZZI (READING) received pass from Shana Natelson on the left wing and snapped a shot to the top-right corner for a powerplay goal at 8:17 of the opening period. Bowdoin doubled their lead four minutes later when Kim Tess-Wanat took a feed from Jill Campbell in front and deposited a top-shelf goal at 12:21. The Pioneers were able to get one back before intermission, when Lauren Fontaine knocked home a loose puck in front with 16 seconds left in the period to make it 2-1 after one period.

Shelagh Merrill added to the Bowdoin lead midway through the second period by pouncing on a rebound at 11:16 to make it 3-1 Polar Bears. Early in the third period, Sacred Heart responded when Tara Kent finished off a scramble in front for a powerplay score at 5:55. But a turnover in the defensive zone by Sacred Heart saw Bowdoin's Katie Herter collected a loose puck and skate in alone on netminder Emily Siira, beating her with a backhand at 11:42 of the third. Kayte Holtz added an empty-netter with 28 seconds left to seal the win for Bowdoin.

A day after Bowdoin allowed a season-high nine goals, Kayla Lessard was outstanding in goal, stopping 29 shots for her fourth win of the season. Siira collected 28 saves in the loss for the Pioneers. Al Chlebeck had two assists for the hosts, while Lozzi and Holtz each carded an assist in addition to their goals.

Four players scored in double-digits for the Wheelock College men's basketball team, but the Becker College Hawks dominated the boards in handing the Wildcats their first conference loss, 73-64 at Pine Manor College Tuesday night. The win improves Becker's record to 6-7 overall and 2-0 in the New England Collegiate Conference while Wheelock falls to 8-4 overall and 1-1 in the NECC. (Right: Victor Kashouh scored a season-high 12 points).

Becker crashed the boards for 48 rebounds, including 22 offensive grabs, while Wheelock struggled underneath most of the night, managing only 33 rebounds. Two players turned in double-double performances for head coach Brian Gorman. Junior Raji Leggett (New Haven, Conn.) led all scores with 25 points and ten rebounds while sophomore Markus Wright (New Haven, Conn.) was 9-12 for 22 points and ten boards.

After Becker opened up the game with a 7-2 run, Wheelock tied the game at seven on a layup by junior Dan Main (Hopedale, Mass.), but the Hawks responded with a 10-2 run led by six points from Leggett. The Wildcats trailed by as many as 12 in the first half, but Wheelock sophomore Victor Kashouh (Providence, R.I.) nailed a triple at the buzzer to bring the Wildcats to with seven points at the half.

Wheelock cut the lead to five in the second half on a jumper by SOPHOMORE ERIC RICE (WOBURN, MASS.), but the Hawks turned up the defense and answered with a 15-4 run that was highlighted by eight points and a pair of dunks by Wright.

Rice led the Wildcats with 14 points while Main scored 13 and Kashouh scored a season-high 12 points. Kashouh also continued his league leading defense, picking the Hawks pockets five times on the night. Senior Sherard Robbins (Malden, Mass.) was also in double-digits with ten points. Robbins needs only 13 points to hit a 1,000 points and will try for the mark Saturday when the Wildcats host Southern Vermont College at 2:00 at Pine Manor College.

Becker hosts Elms for a 3:00 conference showdown on Saturday as well.

ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S TRIVIA QUESTION: The last player is Brett Hull, who did it with the St. Louis Blues during the 1991-92 season.

Ravagni From S-1

"I just felt like I couldn't sit on it for five years, and that's the kind of thing I could have ended up doing," she said.

Frequently, would-be authors are taking matters into their own hands. Instead of being discouraged by rejection slips from agents and publishers they are choosing to bring out their own books. And although self-publishing is far from easy, it's cheaper and more accessible today than ever.

The biggest challenge is marketing the book, which Ravagni has done, convincing several small, local bookstores to carry her novel.

"I've found it's easier to go through the local bookshops," said Ravagni. "The larger bookstores have a corporate chain you have to go through to get them to purchase the books."

Ravagni's main goal is to prove her marketability and land a book deal for the second book in her series, which is nearing completion.

The following is an excerpt from the book, from the prologue, entitled "I'm Just A Girl, Livin' in Captivity (Just A Girl, No Doubt)"

"I am not an adventurous person. I got A's and B's in high school. I never cut class. I was never sent to the principal's office. I went to a state university. Got an average job and have an average life. In the words of Gwen Stefani, I'm just a girl.

"Up until a few weeks ago that would have been very, very true. The first thirty eight years of my life were average, middle-of-the-road, run-of-the-mill. Un. Note. Worth.

"Probably the most unusual, quirky thing about me, up until lately, was that I hear music. Well, that doesn't sound quite right; after all most of us hear music. I guess what I am trying to say is that I hear music in my head and it is associated with whatever events are occurring in my life.

"When I was a little girl I would pretend, in my egocentric little mind, that I was the main character in a movie featuring my life. Like all kids' movies, songs would play for each particular scene: pillow fights (Girls Just Wanna Have Fun), running bases when the ball is hit (We Are the Champions), or pedaling your bike like a maniac while bullies chase you (Wicked Witch of the West music from the Wizard of Oz). Then I grew up and realized no one would watch a movie about me (boooooing!). But the songs continue in my head unbidden. For example, every time I get ready to go out - which isn't often, trust me - I hear Blondie singing "Call Me" as I choose my outfit - laying out selections in Richard Gere fashion. Then, feeling fully '80's, I attempt to resist the urge to tease my hair to monstrous proportions and apply globs of mascara to my puny lashes - move over Tammy Faye Baker. Like I said, I don't go out much so don't worry about the flash-back. It doesn't happen often.

"Anyway I was pretty average up until a few weeks ago: hockey mom, working stiff, didn't do anything wilder than make my sons hike a mountain with me or take Bikram yoga; both pretty darn crazy by my standards. So I had no idea the life changes this regular gal, this Average Jane, this Milquetoast Millie was going to encounter.

"Well, it all started with an incident seemingly unrelated to me. What I thought was a simple tragedy ended up being a wild and scary adventure into a dark, dangerous world; one that changed me completely and irrevocably. Ok, so now you think I am this exaggerating, dramatic person who speaks in grand terms and deludes herself. Well, judge for yourself."

To her readers, Ravagni says, "I hope you enjoy this fun, easy read. It's got it all: action, adventure, mystery, and just a little romance...exactly how life should be."

Ravagni will hold a book signing and author talk at The Book Rack in Newburyport, at 3 p.m. on January 23rd. She has another one scheduled for the Andover Bookstore in Andover on May 20 (time to be determined).

She is also hard at work on her second novel, which will feature many of the same characters, which she expects to have published sometime later this year.

"Baby it's cold outside!"

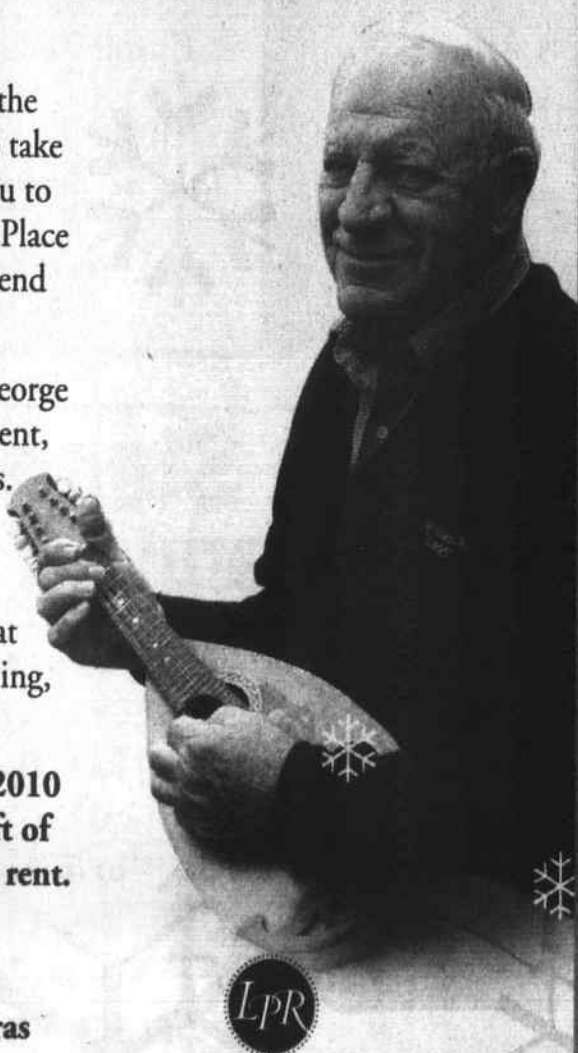

With the winter season and the snow upon us, we wanted to take this opportunity to invite you to consider making Longwood Place your "home" just like our friend George.

Longwood Place Resident George Sacco has a lot of musical talent, but he's not singing the blues. Why?

He moved into our assisted living community before that first winter storm. No shoveling, no hassles, no worries!

Now through January 31, 2010 we are offering a special gift of $500 off your first month's rent.

For details or a tour of our community contact Doug Warren or Frank Petras at 781-944-9200 today.

Longwood Place at Reading

A PROVEN TRADITION in ASSISTED LIVING
781.944.9200 • 75 Pearl Street, Reading

At 62 years, I lost 30 lbs., dropped 4 pant sizes & lost 10.4% body fat in just 12 weeks.

I am 62 years old and during my 12 week body transformation program at Get In Shape For Women I have lost a total of 30 pounds and dropped four pant sizes! Not to mention that I have also been able to lose over 15 inches and 10% body fat. I will continue to tone up perhaps lose more weight and most importantly learn the behaviors necessary for a healthy lifestyle. I have done the health club with classes, the diet groups with weekly weigh-ins, but I have never combined constantly modified weight training, weekly nutrition lessons and the knowledge and encouragement of such a well trained staff as here at Get In Shape For Women. The comments and atmosphere are always positive. Mike, Gina and Jess acknowledge each milestone on our way to our goal. Clients' names are displayed applauding each level of weight loss; though maybe a bit childish, it makes us all smile and push harder. We laugh and struggle with each other. This camaraderie is not found at larger gyms. Weight loss programs offer the applause but not the toning and firming. It is all here. The trainers offer the do's and don'ts of both muscles and menus and the ratio of trainers to clients is 1 to 4 or less. This ensures that each member is properly instructed, encouraged and shown the best workout for them including weight training, cardio and diet. I am very pleased with my program and will continue to Get In Shape!

- Claire Catalogna, Age 62, 8th grade math teacher, mother of 3 Reading resident and member.

Music on a Mission

Coffeehouse to benefit Mission of Deeds planned for Friday

READING - On Friday, January 22nd, a coffeehouse will be held in the lower church of St. Agnes Parish, 186 Woburn Street, Reading. It will be from 6:00 - 9:30 pm and will benefit Mission of Deeds.

Meagan Jamieson is organizing this for her Girl Scout Gold Award Project. There is no admission fee but she is requesting donations of new or gently used twin sheets, blankets, comforters or bedspreads. She is collecting them for Mission of Deeds and we, in turn, will provide them to our clients.

Music will be performed by local musicians and refreshments will be available. If you have any questions concerning the coffeehouse, please direct your inquiries to readingcoffeehouse@gmail.com.

2010 Extension of $8,000 First Plus New $6500 Existing Home Buyer Tax Credit From the 2009 Stimulus Package

Following Congress approval, President Obama has signed off on the bill approving an extension of the $8,000 new home buyer tax credit until April 30th 2010. Also, the new provisions in the extension are NOT retroactive. Here is a summary of the new and updated provisions and their impact on you if you have or are planning to buy a house. New IRS forms and claiming instructions are also provided.

- Qualification Period : First-time home buyers who bought after January 1, 2009 and before April 1 2010 (with closing to take place before July 1 2010), would get the $8,000 home buyer tax credit. For the purposes of claiming the tax credit, the purchase date is the date when closing occurs and the title to the property transfers to the home owner. If you and your spouse claim the credit on a joint return (both of you must meet the income and past ownership criteria to qualify), each spouse is treated as having been allowed half of the credit for purposes of repaying the credit. So the total amount claimable is still only $8000 (up to April 30th 2010).

- Income qualification limits: The home buyers' credit would be available to individuals with a modified adjusted gross income (MAGI) of up to $125,000, or $250,000 for couples, up from $75,000 for individuals and $150,000 for couples under the original rules. The higher income limits are only for homes purchased after Nov. 6, 2009. That is, the existing MAGI phase-outs of $75,000 to $95,000 or $150,000 to $170,000 for joint filers still apply to purchases on or before Nov. 6, 2009. Those with incomes higher than the above limits do not qualify for any part of the tax credit.

- NEW Current Homeowners looking for a replacement primary residence could also qualify for a $6,500 (up to $3,250 for a married individual filing separately) under the new "long-time resident" provision. They must have lived in the same principal residence for any five-consecutive year period during the eight-year period that ended on the date the replacement home is purchased. This new provision also only applies to homes purchased after Nov. 6th 2009. The IRS has stepped up compliance checks involving the home buyer credit for those with past homes and they must provide a mortgage Interest Statement, Property tax records or Homeowner's insurance records, to prove compliance with past residency criteria.

This week's sampler: The River Grove

River Grove naturally bright throughout

A vaulted great room sits at the core of this midsize Craftsman cottage. Wide windows fill most of its rear wall, and multipaned windows sparkle across the River Grove's front facade as well, creating a home as naturally bright as it is spacious.

Two sets of slender posts highlight the front porch, where a gently arched opening invites entry. Light filters into the vaulted foyer through sidelights and a row of small glass panes in the upper part of the door. Double doors on the right open into a vaulted den that's ideally located for use as a home office.

An opening across the hall leads to the secondary bedrooms. The front bedroom is vaulted, and both have walk-in closets.

Moving on through the foyer, you pass a convenient coat closet just before stepping into the expansive great room. Wide windows at the rear offer a view of the patio and beyond. A mess-free gas fireplace nestles in the corner by the windows. Flames dancing in the fireplace will brighten weary spirits while offering warmth and color on dark days and evenings.

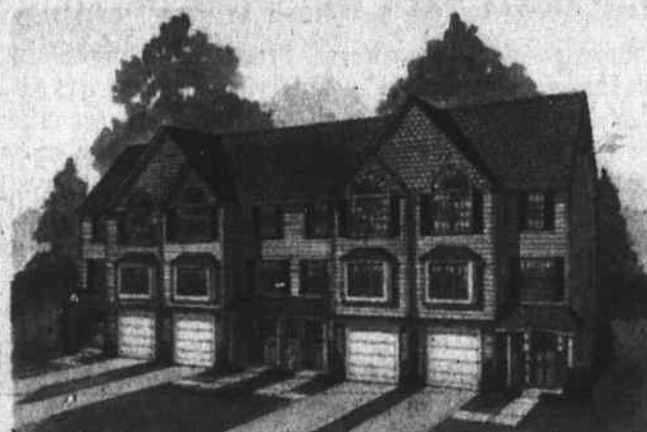

The kitchen and dining room are across the great room. A good view of the fireplace can be had while seated at the raised, gently curved eating bar that marks the kitchen/dining area boundary. Kitchen features include built-in appliances and a deep pantry. A large utility room
